Detour due to work on crossings

Replacement of railroad crossings on Route 203 (Edwardsville Road) near 14th Street will require a detour during the first two days that will route traffic from Route 203 at Bend Road through Brooklyn to Route 3 and on Route 3 to Broadway in Venice. Granite City officials have been informed.

The crossing replacements are expected to take from 10 days to two weeks and is scheduled to get under way Sept. 11. New crossings are to be installed by the Illinois Terminal Railroad on two sets of tracks, and by the Alton & Southern Railroad on the other. Work is to begin by both rail lines simultaneously.

The Granite City Engineering Department said it had been informed the two-day detour Sept. 11 and 12 at a point so far removed from the actual work was made necessary after the city of Madison declined to permit heavy truck traffic over its blacktop streets in other parts of that city.

A detour during the first two days of work was proposed to permit both railroads to install new ties, rail and ballast in the roadway to comply with recommended procedures for installation of grade crossings, according to C.K. Zellman, staff engineer of the Illinois Terminal Railroad.

After that work is completed the detour will be removed and one lane of traffic will be permitted over the crossings while work proceeds in the other lane.

Zellman told city officials: "Actual installation of the grade crossings proper will begin on the west

Disco closes Liquor licensees called to meeting

Cooperation between Granite City tavern owners, the mayor and others may result in a reduction in vandalism and disturbances, particularly in the downtown area, developments this week indicated.

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler, who is the city's liquor license control commissioner, announced at Tuesday night's City Council meeting that he has called a closed meeting at 10 a.m. Monday of all liquor license holders in the city to discuss problems relating to liquor sales, particularly to youths.

The meeting, which will be in the council chambers, will be closed to the public and the press, but Schuler said he plans a general discussion of things that have been happening in connection with tavern and lounge operations, involving law enforcement.

"We intend to lay it on the line," he said, adding, "We have to enforce the laws to guarantee the safety of Granite City residents."

Meanwhile, Neilson Hodger, Jr., operator of the Barrel Restaurant and The Cagney Club disco in the basement of the Barrel, 19th Street and Delmar Avenue, announced this week he has closed the disco club and plans to operate only "a quiet piano bar" on the main floor, adjacent to the restaurant. The restaurant remains open.

The ice cream shop is being converted into the piano bar and a wall will be removed to connect the piano bar to the restaurant's present bar. A spokesman said the new bar will offer only "low-key" music, probably only on weekends. Problems relating to youths, who were attracted to the disco, were cited as the main reason in closing the Cagney Club, despite a large investment in stereo equipment, a dance floor which is lighted from the bottom and extensive remodeling.

The Upper Level Lounge, 18th and State streets, also is making constructive efforts to deter troublemakers, despite a rapid decline in business caused by a strict dress code.

The Upper Level, also a disco, is turning away customers wearing blue jeans, tank tops, motorcycle jackets and other clothing not fitting the dress code.

Enforcement of the dress code was cited as the cause of one recent disturbance, when several youths were refused entry and one of them assaulted the doorman.

Observers said the new dress code has been responsible for keeping a group of older, more responsible, motorcycle riders called The Brotherhood, out of the lounge, even though Brotherhood members have been of great help to police attempting to halt disturbances at the lounge, officers noted.

"They may even be turning away business, but if you have a dress code, you have to stick by it for everybody, or it won't work," he commented.

Dress codes have been in effect at several other Granite City taverns and lounges for some time, which some observers feel have helped in reducing problems associated with younger patrons, including 19 and 20 year olds from Missouri who legally can drink beer and wine in Illinois, but not in Missouri.

JOHN MAERAS FOR SHERIFF

"I'll drink to that." Many Madison County voters backed the successful candidacy of John Maeras for sheriff in 1970 and 1974 but he did not seek re-election this year. Numerous members of the sheriff department have been accused in trial testimony this summer but remain on active status.

Sheriff aides are assailed

A spring-of-1978 telephone conversation — secretly tape-recorded by the late Walter Young, former operator of a bawdy house on Collinsville Road in Madison County — shows Ronald Gryzwacz, accused two Sheriff Department officers, John Cooper and Gary Burns, of improprieties.

The officers remain with the department.

The telephone call transcript was obtained by federal authorities and was part of the evidence at the June 26-27 trial at which Gryzwacz and two other former Madison policemen were convicted of racketeering and perjury.

Gryzwacz operated a car wash business in Madison and Young was running a car wash in Vandallia after ending his tavern activities in this county. Young died at home of an apparent heart attack June 16, 1977.

Young initiated the telephone call to the Gryzwacz residence in Madison. After comments by the two on car washing volume, Young — referring to in-

Y. "And he said that's when Cooper came up and told us about it, so we started running investigation."

"And he said the two that we have documented proof on that uh Gryzwacz and the sheriff collected money off of, is the Club J (Young's place) and Myrene's in Alton."

Firm looted of $82,675 value

Hearing aid equipment valued at about $82,675 was stolen from the Medicare Hearing Aid Service, 1415 Niedringhaus Ave., it was discovered Monday.

There were no signs of forced entry, leading owners to believe someone may have had a key to one of the doors. A ring of keys was found in the grass near the building, but they did not fit any of the doors to the hearing aid service, police related.

Taken from metal storage cabinets were 75 new hearing aids valued at $489 each, 200 used hearing aids worth $200 each, three hearing leathers worth $1,500 each, and three bags of testing equipment worth about $500 per bag.

Test Madison signal tonight

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

"It takes a little getting used to, but it is something the City of Madison needs to alert all our residents when an emergency exists," Casey Krakowicki, Madison civil defense director, said this week, commenting on the community's new warning siren.

"We know the ailing sound of the new signal has been annoying to nearby residents the past week, but we had to get the tone set before trying a full-scale test alert Thursday evening," Krakowicki

Zurkuhlen killed

Rno Zurkuhlen, 61, of 1341 Madison Ave., Madison, was fatally injured when the loader of a tractor fell on him on Bend Road at Horseshoe Lake at 10 p.m. Tuesday.

Ivan Dennis, 711 Ashland Ave., Mitchell, who was with Mr. Zurkuhlen when the accident occurred, said Mr. Zurkuhlen saved his life by pushing Dennis out of the way when he saw the loader falling.

Dennis said they had loaded dirt in a pickup truck and Mr. Zurkuhlen was following the truck in the tractor when there was a sound in the back of the truck like a leaf-spring breaking.

Dennis said both men got a flashlight and got under the truck to study the damage. Dennis said Zurkuhlen yelled, "Look out, the tractor's moving," and then

Inflation to hit overpass

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

Granite City faces the task of raising twice as much money to build its proposed downtown overpass than had been expected earlier.

Mayor Paul Schuler told City Council members Tuesday night that a revised estimate of the overpass cost has been increased by $2 million.

The new estimate, made by M. W. Architects & Engineers, St. Louis planning engineers who are preparing design plans for the structure, fixes the total cost at $7.6 million, the mayor said.

The city's previous estimate, made at the time that planning for the overpass began nearly five years ago, was $5.6 million.

During the past two years, the city has obtained commitments for approximately $3.5 million in funds from the Federal Aid to Urban System (FAUS), from the Illinois Commerce Commission grade separation safety fund and the railroads whose tracks will be spanned by the overpass.

Until the new estimate was received this week, city officials were confronted with raising an additional $2 million to meet what it had considered was the total construction cost. The new estimate raises this amount still to be obtained to about $4 million.

In announcing the higher cost estimate, Mayor Schuler distributed petition forms to all of the aldermen and other city officials and asked them to obtain as many signatures as possible within the next week.

The petitions are directed to Cong. Melvin Price (D-Illinois 22nd District). The preamble of the petition states:

"We, the undersigned, residents of the city of Granite City, Illinois, and residents of your Congressional District, do hereby petition that you do everything in your power to help us in our efforts to have an overpass built over the railroad tracks which divide West Granite City from the rest of the city.

"For years the tracks have posed a serious traffic problem, but more than that, the crossings have been a site of accidents which have resulted in loss of life and serious injury. Emergency vehicles of all kinds, including fire trucks, police cars and ambulances have been delayed.

"It is our understanding that another city in your District has been awarded the money from the federal government to build seven overpasses, and all we are investigators — asked, "You have any company?"

Gryzwacz is quoted in the transcript as replying, "No."

Young: "I did again this morning."

Gryzwacz: "Yeah, well, they've been around."

Y. "Well, I'll tell you what it is. They got a guy up here that they found with three pickup trucks out in his barn."

G. "Uh huh."

Y. "Hot ones."

G. "Uh huh."

Y. "And they was grinding the numbers and that kind of thing, and I think what they're doing is they're coming up here and messing with his car."

"And it was just the one guy today, the one from Springfield, and he said, let me tell you."

"He said, the only reason I come by is, he said, when was up here the other day, he said, I wanted to show you this letter and we forgot to."

"And I started reading this letter and I said, oh this trashy stuff."

"He said, look who signed it. And it's three pages long. Gary Burns."

G. "No kidding?"

Y. "To whom it may concern. Uh, Ronnie Gryzwacz, John Maeras, and all the Madison County officials are a bunch of crooks. I have documented proof that uh they got grass going and prostitution."

G. "Uh huh."

Y. "And everything else in Madison County and uh me (Burns) and Demos Nicholas, this is Burns sayin' this now, has uh been running investigation uh along with the help of John Cooper."

"In other words, Cooper's helping them."

G. "Yeah."

Y. "And anyway, Cooper wasn't really supposed to know (cough) what was going on until Maeras gave him a hundred dollars and said this is your piece for the week."

G. "Uh huh."

"We got enough on Cooper, we can nail him — last week, if we wanted to."

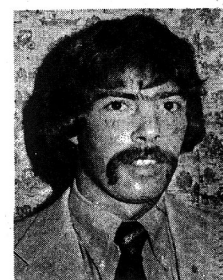

OVERTURNS ON BRIDGE. A St. Louis fireman hoses down leaking gasoline of the overturned car of Claude Shipley, St. Louis, on the westbound lanes of the McKinley Bridge Tuesday afternoon. Shipley said his car was forced into the center guardrail by another car which led to his car ending up on its top. Several attempts were made to turn the car over with manpower but it had to be towed on its top from the scene on the west end of the bridge to a wider area to allow a tow truck to turn it over. Venice, Madison and St. Louis police responded to the accident which backed up traffic on the bridge for nearly an hour. Shipley received only minor injuries from the accident.

Blood screening for lead to be held Sept. 13-15

A mobile van will be in the Quad-City area Sept. 13, 14 and 15 to test children for high levels of lead in their blood.

The van is being offered to a citizen's group here by the Illinois Association for Retarded Citizens, aided by a grant from the State Council of the Knights of Columbus.

Testing will be done only on children who volunteer and have parental permission. It involves a simple pricking of a finger by a machine which requires only 10 seconds to detect high levels of a chemical in the blood which indicates the possibility of lead in the system.

Officials of the Illinois Department of Public Health will be on hand to aid the parents of children who may have lead in their systems. A positive finding by the machine may be caused by high blood pressure, so an additional blood test will be taken of any children showing a suspicious test result and will be sent to Springfield for full analysis.

Early diagnosis of lead in the system can avoid serious brain disorders, kidney damage, blindness or numerous other health problems, Kevin Breslin, representative of the Illinois Association for Retarded Citizens, told interested parents during a program last week to prepare for the van's visit here.

Breslin told the group that the keys to a successful screening program are giving a great many tests in the older areas where homes may have chipping lead-based paint, having sufficient volunteer support and a door-to-door effort to alert parents the van will be in their neighborhoods.

good cooperation with local physicians who can treat potential victims of lead in the blood, and a successful follow-up to eradicate lead sources, if a problem is found.

The program will concentrate on testing children from nine months to six years old, considered the prime ages for ingesting lead in paint, dirt or from other sources.

"These are the children who like to put things in their mouths, including paint chips, dirty fingers, and other things which may contain lead," according to Bill Smithson, president of the Wilson School PTA and a coordinator of the lead van's visit here.

Lead can be from sources other than lead-based paint, he explained. Fumes from most motor vehicles contain lead particles which settle near the roadway. Ingestion of dirt from the edge of the road can put significant amounts of lead into the blood stream, he noted.

There also has been some concern this area that the levels of lead in the air from industrial operations could cause ingestion through breathing or eating.

"Still, national tests have shown that old peeling paint is the cause of most lead-related health problems and deaths and we will concentrate on areas where the homes were constructed prior to 1960, which have the best chances of having peeling lead paint.

Volunteers will be needed Sept. 13 to 15 when the van is here, including eight to 10 persons to go door-to-door, several persons to deal with registration and permission forms, at least two registered nurses and others. Volunteers are being urged to call Bill Smithson at 797-0130 after 5 in the evening, or to contact one of the members of the planning committee.

On hand at last week's planning meeting were Alma Burnett, president of the Logan School PTA; Carl Kettel of the Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society; Margaret Painter of Venice, who works with the crippled children's organization; Frank Kierski of the Madison-Venice Rotary Club; and Smithson.

About 15 to 20 areas in the state are tested each summer by the mobile vans, it was noted.

The Granite City Council approved plans for the testing here during a meeting of the council Tuesday night.

Partial funding for Venice area basic education

Venice Community Unit School District Three has been awarded funds by the federal government amounting to $28,722 a reduction of approximately $45,000 from the amount received last year to operate the Title VII Basic (Local Education Agency) Program for 1978-79.

Mrs. Althea A. Cross, director Title VII Project MICRO, said the basic program has an effective career education program, and to provide in-service training for staff members to improve communication and human relation.

To promote facts concerning the world of work through an effective career education program, and to provide in-service training for staff members to improve communication and human relation.

regarding intercultural and interracial understanding in order to produce an increased amount of home-school interaction.

The pilot program for 1978-79 is presently in "fiscal hold."

If the pilot program is funded, the district will receive $220,862.

The goals of that program are to raise the reading achievement level of target students in the Venice schools, to increase the mathematics achievement level of the target students, and to encourage minority and non-minority students to improve attendance in school in order to prevent a possible decline in their achievement level which could cause them to become "dropouts."

While in the nation's capital, she held conferences with the Midwest branch chief of U.S. Office of Education Title VII Projects to find out more information regarding funding this year.

The program officer said that final word will be forthcoming by the end of the federal fiscal year Sept. 30.

Amendment may help bridges in this region

The Senate has accepted Senator Jack Danforth's amendment to the Federal Aid Highway Act to help St. Louis resolve its problems with bridges across the Mississippi River.

The Missouri's amendment would allow funding for engineering studies to determine whether the state or St. Louis governments should acquire and rehabilitate the privately-owned Eads Bridge.

Five auto bridges span the Mississippi River along the St. Louis riverfront — Poplar, Eads, McKinley, MacArthur and Martin Luther King.

Only the Poplar Bridge is being sufficiently utilized, and Danforth's amendment is designed to ease the efforts of state and St. Louis area officials to relieve its overcrowded condition.

Traffic on the Poplar Bridge already exceeds projections for 1990 and motorists daily experience long delays on it. Poplar opened in 1967 to serve as a Mississippi River crossing for Interstate 70, 55 and 64.

Danforth commented, "The problem for St. Louis is to devise a way to draw traffic from Poplar to one or more of the four underutilized bridges."

"Several groups, including the East-West Gateway Council, Bi-State Development Agency and Regional Commerce and Growth Association, have formed an Interstate Bridge Task Force and are seeking federal funds for a study to determine how the underutilized structures can be better used."

"Federal law currently allows use of highway funds for rehabilitation and related engineering studies of toll bridges only if certain conditions are satisfied, one of which is that such bridges must be publicly owned and operated."

"The Eads Bridge has figured prominently in plans to relieve Poplar, but its private ownership makes any study of Eads ineligible for federal funding."

"It is not likely that a public body would be in a position to buy the Eads Bridge in the absence of such a study."

Danforth's amendment would permit the U.S. secretary of transportation to authorize federal highway funds for use in "any engineering and fiscal assessments, network studies, preliminary modification planning and other study necessary to determine whether a privately-owned bridge, tunnel or approach thereto should be acquired by a state, local government or political subdivision thereof."

"Senate approval of the Danforth amendment means this area may be able to apply funds received under the federal aid urban system toward the cost of studies involving Eads."

"The St. Louis bridge problem is a major headache not only for local officials, but for commuters and others who come into daily contact with the tie-ups across the Mississippi River."

"I think it is clear that the Eads Bridge will have to figure into any long-range solution," Danforth said.

"Therefore, I am pleased the Senate accepted my amendment so that funds can be made available to the St. Louis area for a comprehensive study involving Eads, as well as the other bridges."

Venue owns the McKinley Bridge and East St. Louis owns the King span. Madison's Chain of Rocks Bridge has been closed in recent years.

The Merchants Bridge from Venice to St. Louis is used only for railroad freight traffic.

Interstate 29, a free federal bridge, connects the Quad-City area here with northern St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Because of the tolls competing directly with free bridges like Poplar, the bulk of vehicular traffic destined for downtown St. Louis uses the Poplar Bridge. However, the McKinley Bridge traffic volume has shown improvement since its Venice approach was linked to the Great River Road.

Man threatens police officer

Pontoon Beach Patrolman Jerry Conner was approached by a man with a billy club at Niedringhaus and Madison avenues at 9:30 p.m. Monday, but escaped without being struck.

Conner said he was driving at 18th and State streets when another car passed him and forced his car into the curb. At Niedringhaus and Madison avenues, Conner caught up with the other car and yelled at the driver to drive more carefully.

The man then got out of his car with a nightstick, walked behind his car and approached Conner, who displayed his police badge and ordered the man to stop, he told Granite City officers.

Despite repeated warnings from Conner to stop, the man continued to approach, saying he didn't care if Conner was a policeman, he still was going to beat him, he reported.

Conner then ordered the man to follow his car to the police station to resolve the dispute and drove toward city hall. The man drove east on Washington Avenue and did not go to the police station, Conner said.

side of Route 203 for all three tracks. Highway traffic will be diverted to the east side of Route 203 until this part of the installation is completed to the median of the street.

"The railroads will fill the gap on the east side of Route 203 with ballast to allow passage of cars and trucks over the tracks while working on the west side of Route 203."

"Once the west side is completed with the new grade crossing proper, highway traffic will be diverted to that (west) side and work will continue on the east side to final completion."

In a related action at Tuesday night's City Council meeting, the aldermen referred to the Engineering Department a request by Alderman Lloyd Bailey of the Fifth Ward that new sidewalks be built on Edwardsville Road between 14th and 20th Streets.

Bailey first presented a motion that new walks be built, but several aldermen opposed such quick action pending cost estimates. Bailey's motion that the walks be built was defeated by a 10 to 3 vote and the matter was referred to City Engineer Monroe Brewer.

Earlier, Brewer reported that a check by engineers showed there are no walks at present along Edwardsville Road in that area, although some aldermen contended there were sidewalks there at one time. Brewer suggested that state repaving of Route 203 had obliterated any walks that may have been there, or that they had become covered over the years because of the low grade level along the roadway. Brewer said he believes that replacement of the crossings by the railroads will solve a poor drainage problem along Edwardsville between 14th and 20th streets, and this should be determined first before sidewalk construction is considered.

Mt. Zion Baptist marks 28th year UW Community Service Center aids 205 here

Mount Zion General Baptist Church, 21st and Benton streets, will celebrate its 28th anniversary Sunday with a series of events at the church.

The Rev. Donald Clark pastor, has extended an invitation to all new and old friends to join in the celebration.

Mount Zion Church was organized at 3:30 p.m. Aug. 27, 1950, in a meeting at the Odd Fellows Hall.

The moderator for the occasion was the Rev. Truman Collins.

There were 19 church members, the Rev. Clark advised.

Sunday's series of events will commence with a children's birthday party during the morning worship hour, with all youngsters through the sixth grade level participating.

A potluck dinner will be served in the church basement at 2 p.m. Sunday, followed with a showing of home movies taken over the years of various activities of church members, scheduled in the sanctuary at 3 p.m.

Mount Zion's puppet ministry will perform at 4 p.m., under the direction of Phil Warren. Special singing will be part of the presentation, the Rev. Clark said.

An all-congregational birthday party will start at 4:30 p.m. Sunday in the church parking area, offering games, homemade ice cream and cake. Monetary gifts to the church building fund will be presented at this time, the minister said.

A praise service in the sanctuary is scheduled at 6 p.m., featuring a musical concert by the "Wind's" of Third Baptist Church.

Ethnic days start Friday

It's all happening in Madison on Friday, Saturday and Sunday as the Third Annual Ethnic Days will take place throughout the city, and particularly in the square block area around the Madison Memorial Center, Seventh and Lee Streets, Madison.

The Madison Business Association (MBA) members are featuring numerous special sales.

At the Memorial Center, the festivities will feature special ethnic foods, carnival rides, dancing and games for all ages.

A Madison High School class reunion will be held on Saturday for the 1930 through 1941 classes.

The activities will be from 4 p.m. Friday until 1 a.m. Saturday, noon Saturday until 1 a.m. on Sunday and from noon until midnight Sunday.

housing improvement loans to low-income families.

Many individuals and families are living on fixed income, and this program is helping some of them to upgrade and maintain their homes," Lee commented today.

His busy schedule this fall includes not only the mid-September to October United Way drive but also attendance at a National Installment Credit School at the University of Missouri.

He and his wife, Kathy, are both involved in banking. Originally from Belleville, she is bookkeeping supervisor at the United Missouri Bank of St. Louis.

A native of Venice and lifelong resident, Lee has been with the Madison bank full-time for the past five years.

Vice-president of the Madison-Venice Rotary Club, Lee is treasurer of the United Way-supported Tri-City Area YMCA.

A graduate of Augustinian Academy, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the Illinois Banking School, he is active in the Granite City Optimist Club and St. Mark's Catholic Church.

Lee is vice-president of the Madison Business Association and serves as a citizen member of the Regional Forum of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council.

His grandfather, Dr. John Lee, a physician and later, Dr. John Lee Jr., a dentist, served many terms as mayor of Edwardsville in the late 19th century. Also involved in banking, both are deceased.

While not fully ruling out government-related participation, he has no such plans at this time and prefers to devote whatever spare moments he has to "community involvement," in the belief that citizen activity is essential for democratic processes to function effectively.

Lee is optimistic about the United Way division campaign. Co-chairman of the Madison-Venice Division last year, he has been active in it for several years.

IW Campaign Chairman William P. Donovan comments, "We're moving toward reaching our fall campaign objectives well on schedule, and Jack Lee's leadership role in the important Madison-Venice Division is another fine example of commitment to this community and its United Way."

Births recorded at St. Elizabeth Hospital include:

GRIS
Mr. and Mrs. George Guthrie, 2420 Washington Ave., Aug. 22, Heather Renee, six pounds, one ounce.

BOYS
Mr. and Mrs. Maxey Schrieber, 2414 E. 25th St., Aug. 23, Jason Newton, five pounds, seven ounces.

FACE CANNABIS CHARGE
John L. Ishum, 20, of 2223 Fourteenth St., and William J. Brannum, 22, of 2102 Nevada St., were charged with possession of marijuana after police alleged finding a bag of marijuana in an auto in which they were sleeping at Triangle Park in West Granite City at 4:30 a.m. today.

Man arrested in tavern disturbance

Billy R. Norton, 24, of 284 Sunny Shores Mobile Home Park, was arrested at St. Elizabeth's Tavern, 2422 Nameoki Road, at 12:45 a.m. today and was charged with disorderly conduct.

Police were called on a report a man struck a woman in the tavern and refused to leave. Officers asked a man to leave and alleged he refused, then took off his watch and rings as though he was going to fight with officers.

A friend intervened and talked the man into going outside, but once outdoors, the man again stated he would not leave, pushed his friend to the side and approached police in a threatening manner, it was alleged.

Officers used force to subdue and handcuff him. They alleged he threatened officers at the scene and later at the police station. Norton was released at 1:40 a.m. today on a $100 cash bond.

Church Women's luncheon Tuesday

Church Women United will hold a Representative's Luncheon at 12 noon Tuesday, Aug. 29, at St. John United Church of Christ, 2901 Nameoki Road.

Mrs. Marion Pearson, CWU president, said plans will be presented for an Oct. 3 workshop, "Decision Making for the Church Woman," with representatives being asked to relay the details to their respective church congregations.

8th annual Newport homecoming planned

Aldermen to get $450 to attend meet

Granite City Council members Tuesday night authorized expenses of $450 each for aldermen and other city officials who attend the 68th annual conference of the Illinois Municipal League that is to be held in Chicago Sept. 15 through Sept. 18.

The authorization was approved by a 12 to 1 vote with the only negative vote cast by Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward who a week ago called on council members to cut back on the amount of money authorized as expenses so that city officials and department heads can attend conferences and conventions throughout the country.

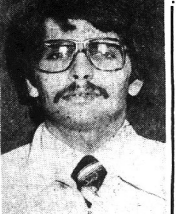

The Illinois Municipal League convention customarily is attended by most of the city's 14 aldermen as well as other city officials including the mayor, city clerk, city treasurer and city attorney.

In discussing the expense provision, one alderman referred to $550 as the amount, noting that was the amount paid aldermen and officials in expenses to the municipal league convention last year.

City Clerk Robert Stevens said the amount paid last year was $450.

Alderman Clyde Boyd moved that expenses this year be the same as those last year. The motion carried.

In another action, the council by a 12 to 1 vote, approved expenses of $300 each for two police officials to attend the Illinois Police Association convention in Decatur, Ill., Sept. 17-18. The expenses were granted to Lt. Col. George Teller and Lt. Michael DeVine. Whitmer also voted no on that motion.

The Eighth Annual Newport Homecoming, featuring a parade, dance, breakfast and a picnic, is scheduled Labor Day weekend, Sept. 2 to Sept. 4, in Venice.

Helen Clemens King, president of the Newport Homecoming Association, sponsors of the event, said the festivities will be launched with a parade Saturday, Sept. 2, starting at the Fox Industrial Park in the 1300 block of College Street and concluding in Lee Park.

Decorated floats, units of Boy and Girl Scouts, clowns, pom pom girls, bands and equipment from the Madison and Venice fire departments will be part of the colorful parade, Mrs. King said.

The three-day festival will include a happy hour party, beginning at 9 p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 2, at Garrett's El Capalera Lounge.

On Sunday evening, Sept. 3, live music will be provided for dancing by the "Olympus" band, a group of musicians from the Quad-City area, at the Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307 Home, 740 Broadway, Venice.

The dance will start at 9 p.m. Sept. 3, and continue until 1 a.m. Mrs. King said.

Breakfast will be served between 8 a.m. and 12 noon Monday, Sept. 4, in Lee Park. The remainder of the day will be spent socially, with games, trophies and picnicking.

Prizes will be awarded in a special segment at 3 p.m. Labor Day (Monday) at the park.

Mrs. King said no charge is made for the homecoming activities, with expenses being paid from funds raised by the Newport Homecoming Association.

Details of Saturday, Sept. 2 parade route, show the marchers assembling at Fox Brothers Industrial Park, 1300 College St., before the 11 a.m. kickoff time.

Traveling west along College, the parade will turn south on Seib Avenue to Market Street, west to Mercedia Avenue, north to Douglas Avenue, west to Weaver Street, south on Weaver to Jackson Avenue, west on Jackson past Dunbar School to West 3rd Street, south to Bissell Avenue and continue south on Klein Street to the Lee Park entrance.

G. "Uh huh."
Y. "And he says, what do ya think about that? And I said, well I'll tell ya real fast what I think."

"I ain't talkin' to you no more unless my lawyer's here, because see you're takin' the word of a crooked cop and gonna try and put some stuff on for me (Young said he told the investigator)."

G. "Uh huh."
Y. "And I said don't come by here no more unless you got a paper for me. And he says, ain't nobody being mad now."

"He says, I'm not askin' ya. I just wanted to show you this letter."
Y. "And I said, well, you showed it to me and the only thing you're tellin' me is what I know—that they're a bunch of crooked sons of a guns. And this big crooked jerk, he's smokin' on the rest of 'em."

G. "Yeah, that's really funny, cause that son of a gun is in touch."
Y. "Well, the main thing in there too now, Ronnie. It says in there, if anything happens to me (Burns), Ronnie Graywacc did it or had it done. Because he's tellin' everybody that 'I'll listen to him that he's gonna kill me (Burns).'"

G. "Ha Ha Ha."
Y. "Now he ain't helpin' you, not very much, I'll tell ya that."

Y. "Cough!"
G. "He sure ain't. He's scared of me. I'm glad to hear that."

Y. "Ain't nobody on the extension, is there?"

G. "No."
Y. "And there was something in there about..."

G. (Inaudible) "I, I know what you're talkin' about, I got a copy of that letter."
Y. "Did ya, really?"

G. "Yeah, I'll tell ya what. Now, I had a girl get it from his apartment and I got a uh copy of that whole letter."

"And uh if they come around and talk to me, I'm gonna show 'em. See, I got a copy of that son of a gun, too."

Y. "Well, that's what this was. Now this was a, uh, Xerox copy."
G. "Yeah, Now I got, I got the exact letter, cause you're sayin' it's pretty true to what the letter said. Uh, you almost had it word for word."

Y. "Well, I mean that's..."
G. (Inaudible)
Y. "That's exactly what it was."

G. "I know, I got a copy of it. I'll tell ya, this girl that used to go with him used to go with my brother-in-law, uh Tommy."

Y. "Yeah."
G. (Inaudible) "Well, they went together and Tommy seen it."

"And he, you know, copied it. And uh we got a complete copy of the whole thing."

Y. "It's on, uh, like stenographer uh paper?"

Y. "Yeah, right."

Y. "It's got the line down the middle?"

G. "Yeah."
Y. "Right?"

G. "Yeah."
Y. "Yeah."

Y. "Same thing, then."

G. "I, I got a photostat copy of it."

Y. "Well, how long has Dennis Nicholas been dead?"

G. "Oh, three or four years."

Y. "I was gonna say, this thing's three or four years old."

"But the last part of it now, he starts makin' everybody look bad and..."

G. (Inaudible)
Y. "Well, he, he's got a copy of it."

G. "Yeah."
Y. "Uh, he's makin' Cooper look like a hero along with him."

G. "Yeah, I can't understand that, unless..."

Y. "And you're bad, bad, bad, bad."

G. "Yeah, I'm, I'm the bad guy. I'll tell ya what, he was really scared of me at that time, see, 'cause he performed this investigation here in town."

Y. "Yeah."

G. "And when him and Bangiel performed this investigation in town, that's when he wrote that letter. Because he really was scared that I'd have him, you know, bumped off or somethin'."

Y. "Yeah, ya know I remember sittin' out behind the car wash, me and you and Kitty, and we was tellin' you about goin' into the car wash up here."

G. "Uh huh."
Y. "And you said somethin' about, boy, I hope nothin' happens to that darn Burns, 'cause they're goin' to come and get me."

G. "Yeah."

Y. "Because he's..."

G. "I remember sayin' that."

Y. "Well, I, me and Kitty was, me and Kitty was ruttin' it up."

G. "I told some big guys too, that wanted to get him, you know."

Y. "Huh?"

G. "They were gonna just—they were really mad at him."

"They wanted to get him out of the way because he was involved in a lot of narcotics traffic."

"And when he's supposed to be a narc agent for the county, and him and Cooper were sellin' this stuff."

Y. "Jesus Christ."

G. "I begged the couple guys. I said, man, don't touch him."

"I says, because if they take me on a lie box, I would know somethin' about it, ya know, even if I didn't have it done."

Y. "Right."

G. "You know."

Y. "Right."

G. "And, heck, I'd fail the ha, gosh darn lie detector."

Y. "That's one of them deals here where you gotta carry a electric blanket around to keep that guy warm."

G. "Yeah, right."

Y. "Keep him from catchin' cold."

G. "That's right."

Y. "Boy."

G. "But uh, see he's turned me in on all this stuff and he's the biggest thief and the biggest burn of this whole county sheriff's department, him and Cooper."

Y. "Yeah."

G. "Him and Cooper had a lot of things goin' on."

Y. "Yeah."

G. "And they're smearin' the whole thing with me."

Y. "Right. Well that Cooper (inaudible), he knows how to get his nose in there good."

G. "Yeah."

Y. "Well, they just flat told me, they said, we got enough on Cooper, we can nail him—last week, if we wanted to."

Park pool to close Sunday

Wilson Park swimming pool will close Sunday, Aug. 27, it was announced today by George Wilkins III, pool manager.

Hours of the three remaining days are from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.

A total of 16,736 adults and children utilized the public swimming facility between June 12 and Tuesday, Aug. 22, including residents, non-residents and those holding family passes, Wilkins said.

In addition to the 16,736 attending the pool during regular operating hours, more than 2,700 children and adults enjoyed swimming at the Granite City pool on special days, through the Learn to Swim program, in life-saving classes and on "Quarter Days."

According to Wilkins, a total of 7,637 people came to the pool in June, 5,664 in July and 4,255 in August through Tuesday.

Additionally, through the park district's seven-week "Learn to Swim" program, 25 received lifesaving instruction; 93 mother and tots were involved in those special classes and between 10 and 15 people came to the park pool daily during the adult swim hour.

One hundred and fourteen youngsters attended the pool with tickets obtained in the "Friendly Program, related to a bicycle safety project."

Four organizations took advantage of the park district's after hours pool rental offer, Wilkins said.

pushed Dennis under the truck hard enough to cause a large abrasion to Dennis' right elbow.

A loud sound followed and when Dennis inquired if the victim was alright, there was no answer. Dennis found Mr. Zurkühlen under the loader with one of his arms under a tire of the tractor. A passerby stopped and helped in the rescue attempt.

The tractor's hydraulic lift had to be activated to lift the wheel from the ground and free Mr. Zurkühlen's hand. The men then took Mr. Zurkühlen to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was pronounced dead upon arrival.

Mr. Zurkühlen was born in Granite City and had lived in this area all of his life. He was self-employed.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Randy (Linda) Pohlmann and Mrs. Wayne (Barbara Jean) Trider, both of St. Peters, Mo.; and four grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are listed in today's obituary column.

Arrests for nighttime stopping at center's lot

Thirty-three persons were arrested this week as police began enforcing the trespassing ban in the Namecki Village Shopping Center parking lot at night.

Officers said attempts to convince teens and young adults not to park on the lot, particularly along Namecki Road near the Kroger Food Store, have been unsuccessful as groups continue to congregate there nightly.

Trash from nearby drive-through restaurants has been left by many in the parking lot and there have been several reports of vandalism and disturbances.

Police noted the parking lot is posted prominently with "No trespassing" signs, which the cars park under and near.

Between 11:40 p.m. Monday and 3 a.m. Tuesday, police approached 12 parked cars, arresting a total of 14 persons.

Richmond Ave., Marvin T. Bridger, 20, St. Louis, Sheryl Wilkins, 19, of 2904 Saratoga Ave., Gary C. Kennerly, 23, of 2508 Sheridan Ave., and Terry W. Tinsley, 27, of 2508 Sheridan Ave.

Also Richard J. Connolly, 22, of 2712 Saratoga Ave., David W. Waynick, 24, of 2119 Benton St., David A. Hubbard, 21, of 2457 Center St., Michael A. Worthen, 19, of 100 Niedringhaus Ave., Joseph L. Young, 19, of 22 Shirwin Drive.

Jan M. Easley, 17, of 2812 Nevada St., Mary F. Vaughn, 17, of 2 Briarcliff Drive, Linda K. Schreiber, 20, of 3219 Maryville Road, and Robbie L. Grijed, 21, of 2538 Washington Ave.

Each was released after posting $35 cash bond.

Arrested Tuesday night and early Wednesday were Jennifer M. Champion, 24, of 2009 Bryan Ave., Marguerite M. Roth, 17, of 3720 Johnson Road, Francesca R. Southwick, 18, of 3009 Myrtle Ave., Joel

A. Werths, 20, of 309 Wason Lane, Mitchell, Gary E. Meyer, 20, of Rural Route One, Box 456, Granite City, and Daris L. Davis, 20, of 2404 Roney Drive.

Also James V. Pulliam, 26, Dennis R. Hester, 23, Bobby Harris, 26, Allan D. Henson, 26, and Cynthia M. Hughes, 19, all of Glen Carbon, and two juvenile girls from Granite City, ages 15 and 16.

Arrests continued last night as six youths in four cars were taken into custody between 10:40 p.m. yesterday and 1:40 a.m. today. Most were released on notices to appear in court.

Charged with criminal trespass to property were Mark E. Hanks, 18, of 2817 Roosevelt Ave., Lonnie W. Clark, 19, of 2914 Buxton Ave., Edgar T. Edwards, 22, of 2690 Iowa St., Mary A. McGowan, 19, of 2566 Edwards St., Kevin Myers, 20, of 541 Margaret Ave., Mitchell, and a 15-year-old Granite City boy.

Boys arrested, admit break-in Three young boys, one age 8 and the others 10 years old, have admitted using a stolen key to enter the Granite City Township Assessor's Office, 2880 Delmar Ave., Monday night and removing certain items of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln and other items.

The boys said they were using a water fountain in the building earlier in the week and took a key to the building. Monday night, they used the key to enter and took the busts, an alarm clock, a decorator wall clock and a magnifying glass.

About 11:30 p.m. Monday, witnesses reported a group of four or five young boys had been seen at the rear door of the building and police were called, but the building appeared secure to officers.

Township employees were told to watch for the boys who used the drinking fountain when the key disappeared and at 1:25 p.m. Tuesday, they saw the three boys and held them for police.

One boy said he sold the busts to someone in the downtown area and another boy said he sold the alarm clock for 75 cents. The wall clock and magnifying glass were recovered and the parents made restitution for the items which the boys had sold.

Police probe rape report

Granite City police are studying an alleged rape which was reported to them yesterday. A 14-year-old girl said she was babysitting for a family on Wilson Avenue when the father of the child she was babysitting returned home.

He asked her to look at his coin collection in the bedroom and when she followed him, he allegedly used force to remove some of her clothing and rape her.

The younger child entered the bedroom and the father stopped the rape, the girl reported.

REGINA, SASKATCHEWAN — Two Granite City youths were on the Busch Gardens Soccer Club of St. Louis which claimed the National Championship as well as the North American Championship here Sunday.

Randy DeRousse and John Sedel returned to Granite City Monday night from this city of 130,000, where they had just helped Busch Gardens of St. Louis defeat Baltimore and Dallas for the National Championship and then beat the Victorian Soccer Club of Edmonton, Alberta (the Canadian champion) for the North American Championship. DeRousse scored in the National Championship game against Dallas. Sedel played strong defense throughout the tournament.

DeRousse, who is a junior winger at Granite City High School South, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin DeRousse. Sedel, a junior defenseman at St. Louis University High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sedel.

News notes

A "yellow alert" due to stagnant air in northwestern Madison County, the Alton area, began Tuesday and has been extended at least until 6 p.m. today. The Illinois Power generating plant at Wood River has reduced emissions at the request of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and persons with heart and respiratory ailments are being advised to avoid ozone-laden, hot and muggy air.

Gov. James R. Thompson today is signing a $7,000,000 appropriation to build a new law school at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. Yesterday, he announced creation of a state Council on Jobs and the Economy.

Letter carriers yesterday rejected by a union margin wage agreement reached a month ago by union-management negotiators. Union President Joseph Vacca favors reopening the talks, but there are predictions that a postal strike may start early next week.

The St. Louis City Board of Public Service said Tuesday it will permit the Bi-State Development Agency to install bus passenger shelters that include advertising.

The Southern Illinois Builders Association filed an unfair labor practices charge Monday against the S. M. Wilson Co., Granite City, for allegedly signing contracts with Edwardile and Alton laborer locals while they are continuing to negotiate with the SIBA.

A former jockey was sentenced Tuesday to six months of weekends in jail and was fined $1,000 as well as being placed on two years' probation. Donald Karpa, 33, pleaded guilty in July to offering bribes to two jockeys at the Fairmount horse race track.

City recommends for jobs at plants but has no guarantees—mayor

Allegations by a political opponent that Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler is using new industries for political purposes by accepting employment applications for the firms were answered today by Mayor Schuler, who said it is the mayor's duty to try and get employment for as many city residents as possible.

Application forms for the Peralley Corp. plant which is under construction on 25th Street, at the railroad tracks, are available at the mayor's office.

The mayor confirmed that persons seeking employment are allowed to fill out a standard city application which is then referred to Peralley officials. "We do the same thing for the new Michigan Metals Corp. and have made recommendations for years to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Granite City Steel and others. I'll bet my office gets nearly as many applications for work as the state employment service," Schuler said.

"The city is deeply involved with both Peralley and Michigan Metals, having sold industrial revenue bonds for them and clearing other problems so they could open here, and I have been a matter of policy asking them to accept recommendations from the mayor's office and elsewhere to hire Granite City people," Schuler said.

"My job is to help our people and we try to help everyone who comes up here. I am happy these companies will accept our recommendations to hire Granite City people," he added. He said an allegation that state employment people also refer applicants for Peralley to the mayor "either is not true or there has been a mistake made."

Train hits car, two injured

The auto of Beulah Eaker, 64, of 4361 Highway 162, was struck by a Granite City Steel switch engine at the rail crossing on 21st Street at the entrance to the company's North Plant at 8:50 a.m. Tuesday, resulting in injuries to a passenger in the car.

Mrs. Eaker escaped with only minor injuries and did not require hospital treatment, although there was extensive damage to her car.

William Brookman, 81, of 2905 Mockingbird Lane, a passenger in the auto, suffered a puncture wound to his scalp, cuts to his nose and right hand and an abrasion to his left shoulder, but was released after treatment and X-rays.

Mrs. Elizabeth Harr, three sons, Joseph and David Harr, both of Granite City, and Harvey Harr of Troy; five brothers, Richard Harr of Garden City, Calif., Edward Harr of Milltown, Wis., Raymond Harr of Crystal City, Minn., Harold Harr of Louisiana and Leland Harr of Wisconsin; one sister, Mrs. Gloria Title of Minnesota, and his mother, Mrs. Alberta Quisart of Wisconsin. Funeral arrangements are listed in today's obituary column.

Angry crowd causes $20,000 damage after rock star fails to appear

An angry crowd of between 12,000 and 16,000 rock-and-roll fans threw bottles and rocks, started a fire, injured one man and caused other problems Monday when rock star Smokey Robinson refused to entertain, although he already had been paid for the outdoor concert at St. Louis International Raceway, south of Madison.

Attorney David Adamson of Granite City, representing Kenneth Avery, co-promoter of the rock concert, said he intends to sue Robinson for breach of contract and for damages to the equipment and the track now estimated at more than $20,000.

Robinson's refusal to perform, although he was on the grounds and his band was on the stage, was believed responsible for the crowd, which had waited hours to hear him, turning into a rock and bottle-throwing mob.

Daniel Smith, 30, Little Rock, Ark., a sound engineer for the concert, was hit on the head by a thrown object and sought treatment at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis for a mild concussion.

Adamson said Robinson had been paid in advance an amount into "five figures," and still refused to perform. In a press release issued by Avery, he stated, "We cannot apologize for his (Robinson's) conduct and it would be presumptuous and improper to discuss either the physical condition in which he came to the concert, his ready willingness to accept final payment or his total disregard to the fans."

The release complimented most of the crowd for their patience and conduct and apologized "for the frustration of a few fans dismayed at Robinson's refusal to perform, even though he had been fully paid."

The crowd smashed sound equipment, overturned two platforms near the stage, broke two spotlights and smashed windows in the nearby Shooter's Steak House.

About 120 security guards, including off-duty East St. Louis and Centerville policemen, were on hand to provide security at the concert, but Madison and St. Clair County deputies and State Police troopers had to be called out to quell the mob action, officials reported. Part of the problem was that many security guards walked out at midnight, when the concert was scheduled to end, it was noted.

Due to delays of up to an hour between preliminary acts, Robinson's back-up group, the Quiet Storm, did not get onto the stage until 1:30 a.m. and left after a brief warmup because the crowd was becoming unruly, a witness recalled.

Robinson's manager, Randy Dunlap, said Robinson's performance had been delayed by the late arrival of an earlier act and he waited at the St. Louis Sheraton hotel until past midnight.

He then was unable to enter the racetrack due to departing traffic and went to a nearby restaurant until the traffic slowed. When he arrived at the track, he found the crowd unruly and, therefore, did not risk going on stage, according to Dunlap.

CUSTOMIZED TRANS-AM designed by Dennis Locandro of Granite City was unveiled at the Midwest Auto Show in Kansas City. Locandro said the design combines form and function to produce a sporty and functional sport wagon. View scoops on each side serve to eliminate blind spots that plague safety-conscious motorists, he said. Locandro's customized Trans-Am will be displayed in Collinsville and plans are under way to begin marketing the car nationally.

Extra police staffs will continue at the most unsafe highway points

The Illinois State Police Concentrated Traffic Enforcement Program will continue into Phase II through a renewed federal grant.

Primary goal of this program is the reduction of motor vehicle accidents and their resultant injuries and deaths. It is achieved by increasing police visibility and enforcement of all traffic laws at selected high-accident locations.

Crashes remain relatively constant during scheduled hours of extra patrolling of high-accident locations, while accidents during other hours there tend to increase, studies reveal.

Captain Albert J. Bertagnoli, commander of District 11, Maryville, says fatalities decreased 3.4 percent in District 11, whereas statewide accidents decreased 0.8 percent.

The program utilized 31,063 man-hours, with 29,782 enforcement contacts recorded.

The most common violations cited were speeding (14,580), equipment and vehicle conditions (7,285) and improper turning (1,142).

In this district, 862 motorists were cited while 1,548 motorists were issued written warnings. This represented an enforcement contact for every 56 minutes of patrol time.

The basic concept of any traffic enforcement program is to ensure safety on our highways. If every motorist exercised more individual compliance with these traffic laws, highways would be a better place to live.

Bertagnoli commented to the Press-Record yesterday.

A murder victim found Sunday morning near Route 111 and Interstate 70 has been identified as Carolyn Renee Duff, 17, of St. Louis.

The partially-clad body was found near a pond beside Route 111 just north of the Interstate.

She had been shot in the back and at the rear of her head.

Madison County sheriff's deputies worked with St. Louis police in St. Louis Tuesday, showing the picture to storeowners and others in certain areas.

The inquiries led to a telephone call from the victim's relatives to the Madison County Sheriff's Department. Two sisters and a brother then identified the body in Collinsville. She had last been seen Friday, deputies were told.

Authorities have been unable to determine a motive for the murder. A 12-year-old boy found the body as he was going fishing in the nearby pond.

TEEN SETS FIRES

A boy about 15 years old was seen starting a weed fire in a back yard in the 2200 block of Delmar Avenue at 6:55 p.m. Tuesday and the resident put the fire out. A few minutes later, another fire was discovered in the neighboring home of Sammy Calvin, 2227 Delmar Ave., which spread to the garage and damaged the garage and a camper inside.

Cindy Stratton to wed Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Stratton of Chehalis, Wash., are announcing the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Cindy Stratton, and Doug Lindsey, formerly of Granite City.

The ceremony will take place Saturday at the United Methodist Church in Chehalis.

The groom-elect is the son of Mrs. Marlene Mercer, 2314 Grand Ave., and Bill Lindsey of Farmington, N.M.

Miss Stratton is a 1976 graduate of Chehalis High School and is employed by Sears, Roebuck and Company.

Her fiancé, a 1974 graduate of Farmington (N.M.) High School, is employed as a photographer by the Chromalloy Corp.

The prospective bridegroom's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Waggoner and Mrs. Mary Lindsey, all of Granite City.

Several relatives from here are planning to attend the ceremony.

Eight-Forty meet at Wood River post

Madison County Salon 53, Eight and Forty, met at the American Legion Home in Wood River last week.

Seventeen attended, representing the communities of Alton, Edwardsville, Highland, Roxana, Madison and Granite City.

Plans were completed for the installation of officers of the Forty and Eight and Forty groups on Sept. 17 at the Wood River Legion Home. A 4 p.m. dinner will be served.

Reports from the state convention in Chicago also were presented.

After the business session, a salad luncheon was served and a social hour with games concluded the day's activities.

The chapter will hold its next meeting at the Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307 in Venice.

Mrs. Parente hosts Monday card club

Mrs. Leona Parente, 1821 Lindell Blvd., hosted the Monday afternoon Pinochle Club at her home.

Winners at the games were Theresa Walkenbach, Myrtle Bruns, Mavel Clover and the hostess.

Others present were Belle Kreher, a guest, Margaret Richardson, Pauline Canham and Marie Perry. The next meeting will be hosted by Mrs. Perry.

was bridesmaid. Both are sisters of the bride.

The best man was William White and Steve Dickey, the groom's brother, was the groomsmen.

The usher corps was composed of Robert Gauen, the bride's brother, and Ross, Scott and Andrew Dickey, brothers of the groom.

The bride chose a dotted Swiss gown, created with an Empire bodice of Venice lace and sequins. Lace formed the high neckline and bishop sleeves.

A deep flounce, edged with Venice lace, encircled the hemline of the skirt and swept backward into a chapel train.

A Venice lace Juliet cap secured her bridal veil of illusion, embellished with lace, and she carried a cascade of pure white roses, interspersed with baby's breath and greenery.

The attendants chose gowns of yellow and maize polyester made with Empire-style bodices. The halter necklines were banded, crisscrossed at the shoulders and worn with circular float overlays of chiffon.

Their flowers were orange roses, orange lilies and butterscotch daisies, with purple statice and baby's breath.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Gauen chose a powder blue gown with a long, pleated polyester skirt and a French pleated chiffon flounce over the bodice.

The groom's mother selected a cream color pleated skirt and bodice of polyester. The full-length dress had long sleeves.

Mrs. Gary Sorenson was in charge of the guest book.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Scott Dickey and Steve of Elkart, Ind., Mrs. Kathy Schmidt, Boston, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hendricks, Newcastle, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Harold White, Brownsburg, Ind., Miss Sharon Ellett of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bennett and Delana, and John Ellett, all of Lafayette, Ind.

The bride is a former employee at St. Elizabeth Hospital pharmacy. She attended Bellevue Area College for two years.

Her husband is a senior year student at Purdue University. He serves as president of Alpha Mu Fraternity.

After a wedding trip to the Missouri Ozarks, the couple will be at home in Lafayette, Ind.

Patronage switch— a puzzler

By AL MANNING
SPRINGFIELD —
Republicans are still puzzling over Gov. Jim Thompson's unexpected switch in patronage chiefs.
One day Jim Clark was presiding at a meeting involving the patronage personnel in the various state agencies and code departments.
No hint was given that he was at Clark's request, however, because he said he asked six weeks ago about moving to another position.

The switch, though, signals that Thompson still is having trouble relating to his own Republican Party.
He first appointed Dan Kennelly, a Chicago police officer, to direct the patronage office. It didn't take long to realize that was a mistake, so Kennelly was shuffled off to another agency.
Then came young Mike

Dunn. He was the target of severe criticism by the county chairman — mostly because the governor was not giving them all of the jobs they wanted — and he was eventually bounced for allegedly misusing state aircraft.
The switch was sudden in Dunn's case, too. He was talking to a legislator when he received a telephone call saying the governor wanted to see him. Dunn left his papers on the desk and said he would return in a few minutes. He never did.

After Dunn's departure, Zale Gienberman, the legislative liaison, was appointed on a temporary basis to oversee the operation. Clark and Jim Helm handled the day-to-day matters.
Finally, last fall the governor said he had worked out the kinks and he appointed Clark as director. Helm went to a code department.

Clark lasted seven months. On the day before the meeting of the Republican County Chairmen's Association, Thompson announced Clark was heading to the Department of Administrative Services for a $30,000-a-year job and that he would be replaced by Kjellander.
Kjellander's approach to the $30,000-a-year job differs somewhat from Clark's. There's no mention of the ombudsman or problem-solving type of role for the new operation.

Instead of working in an office located in the old Waterworks Building across the street from the State Capitol, Kjellander moved back into the governor's office on the second floor.
Under the new arrangement, he also is responsible for the appointments to the numerous boards and commissions. Peg Blaser, who handles those chores, now reports to Kjellander.

Lawyers fighting to restore image

By KEN WATSON
SPRINGFIELD — Illinois lawyers have joined the battle.

It's a fight to protect attorneys' public image from further deterioration and to regain the public confidence which the profession once took as a matter of course.
A call to arms has been sounded by the new president of the 22,000-member Illinois State Bar Association, Lloyd Tyler of Aurora.

In his first president's page message in the Association's official publication, the Illinois Bar Journal, Tyler counsels lawyers to speak out when their profession comes under attack.

America's lawyers have been taking their lumps in recent months with critics including such heavyweights as President Carter and U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger.

The criticism from on high came at a time when the average citizen is taking a hard look at lawyers. The basic blast from those who find themselves involved in litigation is that lawyers charge too much and take too long to get anything done.

There is a growing suspicion that lawyers have created a legal maze that keeps them all in business arguing among themselves, with the hapless client paying the freight for all of them.

The top strata of the profession — the judges — have been a special target of public ire, being equated on the same level as members of Congress and state legislatures.

To many frustrated taxpayers, the main concern of the lawyers and the judges is engineering themselves yet another fat fee or pay raise.

Lawyers have for years been recognized as enjoying the good life. The consistently have ranked high in earnings, and admission to the bar traditionally has been accompanied with a new respect from one's friends and associates.
But there is a gnawing worry that all this may be changing. One basic problem may be an oversupply of lawyers. Law schools have been churning them out like draftees from the Russian army. Many a law school graduate these days ends up making his living at something besides practicing law.

It also is generally assumed that lawyers have fallen substantially behind their rival profession — medical doctors — in income, not to mention prestige.

In fact, a busy plumber or roofer can make about as much a year as a run-of-the-mill lawyer. Soaring taxes and inflation hit lawyers like everyone else and they must find themselves putting in long hours on the job in order to keep pace.

The era when any established lawyer could count on spending two or three afternoons a week on the country club course has long since passed.

The increasing preoccupation with making a living is reflected in the decline of lawyers in participation in public affairs, including state legislatures.

Lawyers have been deserting legislative halls in droves. A recent survey showed that the percentage of lawyers in legislatures has decreased from 26 to 21 percent of the total membership in little more than a decade.

The decline in lawyer-legislators has not skipped Illinois, although one-third of this state's legislators are attorneys. This puts Illinois among the top 10 states in the nation in lawyer representation.

However, there were 87 lawyers in the Illinois House and Senate in 1961 and 79 in 1967. The current 80th General Assembly has 72 attorneys among its total 236 membership.

Can the decline in public confidence in lawyers be halted or reversed? The lawyers are clearly on the defensive and can be expected to remain there for some time. At least, under Tyler the Illinois lawyers will fight back.

New NFL season—pass the questions

By JOE STEIN

A notebook bursting with questions greets the dawning of a new National Football League season.

How long will it take for Coy Bacon to extol his new bosses in Washington? How long will it take for him to change his mind and demand to be traded?

Will this be the season in which John McKay's Tampa Bay Bucs finally turn the corner?

How much does O.J. Simpson still have left? Will his presence revive the 49ers and keep the wolves away from Joe Thomas' door?

Can anybody stop the Dallas Cowboys? Which will be more fascinating to watch, Anthony Dorsett's runs or his ego trips?

Will Denver's Orange Crush maintain its fizz or turn into second-year fizzles? Will Tommy Prothro go out a big winner with the San Diego Chargers? Will Tommy want to go out all if his team is just blooming?

Can Earl Campbell supply the missing ingredient that has kept the Oilers mired as also-rans for so many years?

What new miracle does Don Shula have in store for Miami Dolphins fans this time?

Can the Minnesota Vikings milk another productive season out of Fran Tarkenton?

Does Bud Wilkinson stand a chance to win in St. Louis or will he be lucky simply to avoid being humiliated?

Will rookie flash Terry Miller help Buffalo fans get over the loss of the great O.J.?

Will Brian Price finally have the opportunity to show the Cleveland Browns what he can do through an injury-free season?

Can Bart Starr hang on long enough in Green Bay for his young Packers to come of age? Will they ever come of age?

Who will emerge as the next great NFL receiver, the Saints' Wes Chandler, the Packers' James Loftis, the Chargers' John Jefferson? Or somebody else?

Can the Baltimore Colts forget their internal squabbling and present a united front against the rest of the league?

Did the Oakland Raiders show the first signs of slipping last season or was it just a temporary lull after winning that first elusive Super Bowl?

Are the Kansas City Chiefs finally on the road back, thanks to a bumper crop of draft choices?

Can Pittsburgh brush away some of the rust on its Steel Curtain and spring back as the NFL's chief intimidator?

What new excuses will the Cincinnati Bengals come up with if their title dreams crash again? Will the Bengals regret trading Lenar Parrish now that Tommy Casanova has retired, leaving two holes in the secondary?

Is this Archie Manning's last chance to salvage something of what once appeared to be a bright career in New Orleans?

Can Douglas Williams withstand the pressures heaped on a black quarterback and win the first-string job at Tampa Bay?

Did high-scoring Seattle plug enough defensive holes through the draft to be more than just a pest?

Are the New England Patriots ready to shake off last year's disappointments and resume their Super Bowl quest?

Is quarterback Richard Todd really as good as he appeared to be in spurts for the New York Jets last year?

Is Atlanta's smothering defense of last season for real?

Where have you gone, Duane Thomas?

A magic word

R. J. Hastings is editor of The Illinois Baptist in Springfield

One of the oldest pieces of writing in existence is on a clay tablet dug from the ruins of Babylon. It reads, "Alas, alas, things are not what they used to be. Children no longer obey their parents; everybody wants to write a book; and the signs are multiplying that the world is soon coming to an end."

Over a century ago, the October 10, 1857, issue of Harper's magazine sounded this pessimistic note, "It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years has there been so much grave and deep apprehension, and never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time . . ."

And someone else, whose name I don't have, wrote:

My grandad, viewing earth's worn cogs, Said things were going to the dogs; His grandad in his house of logs Swore things were going to the dogs; His grandad in the Flemish bogs Said things were going to the dogs; His grandad in his old skin logs Said things were going to the dogs; Well, there's one thing I have to state: Those dogs have had a good long wait.

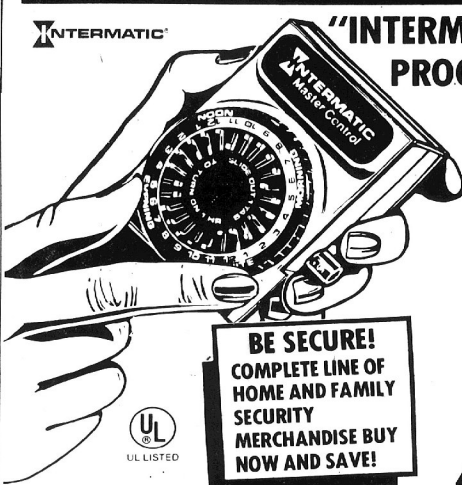

So pessimism's been around a long time. But who has a good word? I like what Claud M. Bristol wrote in The Magic of Believing. He studied outstanding persons of all walks of life. In hospitals he watched some people die while others, just as sick, lived. He noticed how some football teams win, while others with players just as good would lose. He wondered if there's a force which only a few people understand. He concluded there is, and that the force is belief.

... gradually I discovered that there is a golden thread that runs through all the teachings and makes them work for those who sincerely accept and apply them, and that thread can be named in a single word—belief. It is the same element or factor, belief, which causes people to be cured through mental healing, enables others to climb higher the ladder of success . . . there's genuine magic in believing . . ."

Schools teach 4th 'R'—responsibility

By L. S. CLEMENS

SPRINGFIELD — Education generally is on center stage in this country, sometimes under a soft spotlight that shows its better points, sometimes under a harsh, incandescent glare that does nothing to conceal its darker corners.

This happens to be a period on which the brighter lights are turned on, principally because of concern over the tax dollar, but in good part because reading, writing and arithmetic efforts aren't up to what the paying public wants them to be.

This being so, some words of Dr. Robert Trevarthen of Elmhurst should be of interest to a goodly portion of the readership. Trevarthen is taking over as superintendent in District 300, which encompasses the Dundee, Carpentersville and Algonquin areas.

Here's what he had to say about education in a recent newsletter distributed in the district he currently directs:

"There is a trend under way to add a fourth R to the basic three R's of education (readin', ritin', 'rithmetic). The additional R is for responsibility.

"Proponents of this idea want educators to spend more school time teaching students to be more responsible. We know this can be accomplished by holding students accountable for their attendance, punctuality, homework, attitude and achievement. Being responsible is an attitude that certainly can and should be nurtured in school.

"But there also is another application of this fourth R—the responsibility that parents must shoulder in raising their children. Responsibility should be taught at home as well as in school. It must be a part of every child's home life, and it is the parents who must set examples of responsibility for them.

"Parents can begin to exercise this responsibility by raising their children's activities when they are not in school.

"Many students spend alarming amounts of time watching television programs which in some cases have been characterized by our National PTA as immoral, or at best anti-social. Instead of learning skills that are necessary to function as productive members of our democratic society, students see the glamorization of drop-outs, drug users, pushers and seasoned criminals.

"Rarely is hard work, perseverance, good behavior and intellectual ability used in a constructive way in television drama.

"Parents and teachers must work together to persuade our young people to turn off their television sets and open their schoolbooks.

"This does not necessarily mean that all television watching should be limited and carefully monitored.

"We have many outstanding students in Elmhurst. They study from one to three hours every night, five nights a week, in junior and senior high school.

"Knowing where your children are and what they are doing can effectively decrease vandalism and install a high regard for good citizenship. Parents must not be swayed by the argument that because 'everybody else is doing it,' it must be an acceptable pattern of behavior.

"Your schoolteachers and administrators want to share with you the responsibility for educating and raising your children. We can all work to make your young people more responsible by practicing the basic responsibilities of adulthood ourselves.

"It is only natural that as an emphasis on student accountability takes place, we will find that some students will not be happy with this firmer role taken by teachers, administrators and parents."

Petitions challenged

The Illinois Education Association and others question the validity of thousands of signatures on a tax limitation petition gathered by Governor James Thompson and will be moving to prevent the issue from appearing on the November ballot, IEA President Mel Smith said Wednesday.

He said many of the petitions appear to be incorrectly signed and processed.

"We have good reason to believe there are improper signatures, unqualified petition circulators and notary public deficiencies, all of which could nullify enough petitions to prevent the expensive ballot process. A statewide referendum would cost Illinois taxpayers in excess of $7 million.

"During the next few days, we will be scrutinizing and challenging. We have every reason to believe that we will be successful."

The Southern Illinois Builders Association on Tuesday outlined terms of a contract offer made by the association which was rejected early this week by members of the Twelve Counties Laborers District Council and its affiliated local unions.

"This offer contains nothing radically different from the terms already accepted by the four trades with which SIBA has successfully completed negotiations," Wayne Barber, executive director, said.

SIBA introduced changes in contract work rules which were intended to increase productivity and improve construction costs in Southern Illinois, he said.

"Carpenters, Cement Masons, Operating Engineers and Iron Workers locals all approved some work rule changes in recent settlements.

"Each of the trades that recently completed negotiations made concessions of great significance as the changes relate to their trade," Barber said.

He said that changes approved by one or all of the trades involved in recent negotiations, and submitted to the Laborers, include:

—Changing the overtime rate for Building Laborers from double time to time and one-half during the week. Site work and grading performed on Saturday would also be at time and one-half in work weeks shortened by weather, with all other Saturday work at double time.

Both the Operating Engineers and Teamsters locals have accepted these terms, Barber said.

—Flexible starting time, with an eight-hour day anywhere between the hours of 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. Contractors would give unions notice prior to changes in starting time.

—Flexible lunch period, of 30 minutes, to start normally between the hours of noon and 12:30 p.m. "Such flexibility allows contractors to complete construction operation, such as concrete pours, without costly overtime or interruptions. If a worker is required to work past the lunch period, he is given 30 minutes for lunch and 30 minutes overtime pay," it was related.

Barber said the two key issues in negotiations with the 12 Counties Laborers have been the Saturday overtime in the Building contract and flexible lunch period provisions in both the Building and Highway contracts.

He asserted that Saturday work on such items as grading, earth work and site preparation work is necessary "because it is often impossible to get equipment onto a job site for several days after a period of inclement weather."

"The Operating Engineers and Teamsters, the two other crafts primarily involved in this work, have already agreed to reduced overtime provisions."

"Regarding flexible lunch hours," Barber said, "in fact the Madison County and Tri-Counties Carpenters have agreed to two hours of flexibility in their lunch period."

"As it stands now, if a contractor works a Laborer two minutes past noon, the man gets a half hour at double time, and he still gets to take 30 minutes for lunch."

"On Aug. 1, the Laborers began picketing area projects after the union had failed to agree on a new contract with SIBA and the Southern Illinois Contractors Association (SICA)."

"SIBA is the bargaining agent for Building Heavy Construction Contractors and SICA bargains for Highway Contractors."

"Until Monday, Aug. 14, the primary issue had been the contractors' request to have mobility of men from one jurisdiction to another."

"The union told the contractors that if the mobility issue were dropped, there would be no trouble in reaching a contract settlement," Barber said.

"Wages have not been a key issue in the negotiations. The agreement for 80 cents, 85 cents and 90 cents, totaling a $2.35 increase in wages over three years, represents a 24 percent increase, compared with 21 percent granted to other crafts settling recently."

On Tuesday, Aug. 15, the mobility request was removed and the agreement was submitted to the Twelve Counties District Council and 10 local unions — with separate bargaining agreements.

—Wood River: Local 338 members voted to accept the agreement and return to work on Monday, Aug. 21. East St. Louis Local 100 and Granite City Local 397 representatives declined to present the agreement to their memberships unless all work rule changes were removed.

"The District Council and affiliated local unions have voted to reject the contract terms. The contractors are currently awaiting a counterproposal by the Laborers."

"Our philosophy in asking for changes has not been to reduce the number of Laborers or men hours worked, but rather to allow management more flexibility in supervising jobs and scheduling projects," Barber said. "This is the only way that a 24 percent wage increase could be justified."

The Federal Mediation Service has scheduled a meeting between the Laborers District Council and SIBA which will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the Mediation office in Clayton.

North students activity passes

Gilbert Walmesley, principal at North High School, announced today that the Granite City Board of Education wants all students to participate in as many school activities as possible.

In order for this to be possible, the board has provided a $7 student activity pass which will entitle a student "free" admittance to six home football games, nine boys and 9 girls basketball games, six home wrestling meets, nine girls volleyball matches, one desert theater play, three vocal concerts and every issue of the school newspaper.

Normally, admittance to boys athletic events, the Desert Theater and vocal concerts are $1 for students. Girls athletic events are 50 cents per student and the school newspaper sells for 10 cents. All these activities would normally cost a student $34 if he or she were to pay for them individually. This activity ticket will save the participating student $27.

Walmesley said any North student can purchase this ticket up to Sept. 15, in the high school office, the lunch periods. All checks should be made payable to Granite City High North.

"To take full advantage of the $27 savings, students should purchase the pass as soon as possible since our first home football game is on Friday, Sept. 15, against Collinsville," Walmesley said.

By MARJORIE RICE

Walk down any supermarket aisle these days and you'll see packaged mixes for pancakes, muffins, biscuits, cookies, skillet dinners, sweetened iced tea, salad dressing and many more dishes.

There's been a steady proliferation of these mixes that promise home-baked goodness, while all you do is add water and stir.

Great cooking it's not, but time-saving? Yes.

But I've always had a twinge of guilt when I opened that taco seasoning packet and realized I'd paid 24 to 27 cents for spices I already had on the shelf, but was too lazy, or uninformed to mix myself.

For all those cooks who have had similar twinges, there's a new cookbook, "Make-A-Mix Cookery," (H. P. Books, Tucson, $4.95). It's written by three women, Karine Eliason, Nevada Harward and Maelene Westover, and is a clearly written book, with recipes for making your own mixes, then for using them in a surprising variety of ways.

The authors suggest using empty shortening cans and other free containers for storing the mixes, putting them in a cool, dry, dark place. When staples such as unbleached flour or dried milk are on sale, buy them in quantity, they said, and make mixes.

Store some mixes in recipe-size portions in plastic bags, for convenience.

Use hydrogenated shortening, rather than butter, for the mixes, since it keeps for about three months, unrefrigerated.

All-purpose flour is called for in most of the recipes, but the authors say whole-wheat flour can be substituted. Be sure to label whole-wheat flour mixes with the date, and store them in a cool, dark spot. The oil in wheat germ can go rancid, so plan on using whole-wheat mixes within a month or two of packing.

Unbleached flour can be used in any of the recipes that call for all-purpose flour.

This salad dressing duplicates the envelopes of ranch dressing that call for adding mayonnaise and buttermilk. Make several batches, storing recipe-size portions in old baby food jars or packets of foil. An assortment of homemade dressing mixes (the book includes several), with recipes for using them, would make an attractive gift.

HOME-STYLE DRESSING MIX

2 tps. instant minced onion
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. garlic powder
1/2 tsp. monosodium glutamate (optional)
1 tsp. parsley flakes
Combine all ingredients in a small bowl, until evenly distributed. Store and label. Use within six months. Makes about 2 tablespoons.
To prepare dressing, mix one recipe of Home-Style Dressing Mix with 1 cup mayonnaise and 1 cup buttermilk. Shake until well blended. Chill before serving. Makes 2 cups. One cup sour cream may be substituted for buttermilk, and the dressing used as a dip for fresh vegetables.

This hot roll mix makes 22 cups, enough to make three batches of Honey-Walnut Swirl bread. The cookbook also offers recipes for cinnamon twists, rolls, butter-soft butter balls, orange butterflake rolls and "big soft pretzels," among others, using this roll mix.

HOT ROLL MIX

20 cups (5 lbs.) all-purpose flour
1 1/2 cups sugar
4 tps. salt
1 cup instant nonfat dry milk
Combine all ingredients in a large bowl, stirring to distribute them evenly. Put in a large, airtight container. Label. Use within six to eight months.

MARY'S HONEY-WALNUT SWIRL

2 tps. active dry yeast
1 cup lukewarm water
2 eggs beaten
1 cup water
4 tps. vegetable oil
1 tsp. orange peel
1/2 tsp. lemon peel
6 1/2 to 7 cups hot roll mix, above
Honey filling (see below)
Powdered sugar glaze (see below)

In a large bowl, dissolve yeast in 1 cup lukewarm water. When yeast starts to bubble, add eggs, 1 cup water, oil and peels. Blend well. Add hot roll mix, 1 cup at a time to "make a soft dough. On a lightly floured surface, knead dough five to seven minutes, until smooth and satiny.

Lightly butter bowl. Put dough in bowl and turn to butter top. Cover with damp towel and let rise in a warm place until doubled in bulk, about one hour.

Punch down dough. Prepare honey filling. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Butter two 9 by 5-inch loaf pans. Divide dough into two balls. Roll out each ball into two 9 by 14-inch rectangles. Spread honey filling to within one inch of edges. Roll up like a jelly roll from small end, lifting dough slightly and sealing edges as you roll. Seal ends and put into prepared pans, seam-side down. Cover and let rise in a warm place until dough is slightly rounded above top of pan. Bake at 45 to 50 minutes, until deep golden brown. Cool on wire rack. While still warm, drizzle powdered sugar glaze on top of loaves. Makes 2 loaves.

Honey filling: Blend 3/4 cup sugar, 1/4 cup honey, 1 egg, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/2 cup chopped nuts.

Powdered Sugar Glaze: Combine 1 1/2 cups sifted powdered sugar, 1/2 tablespoon butter, melted, and 2 tablespoons hot water in a small bowl, blending until smooth.

This Quick Mix is the most versatile, the "Make-A-Mix" authors said. The book offers 32 recipes for using the mix. Space limits prevent us from printing recipes for all the pictured mixes.

QUICK MIX

8 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
2 tps. cream of tartar
1 tsp. baking soda
1 1/2 cups instant nonfat dry milk
2 1/4 cups vegetable shortening

In a large bowl, sift together all dry ingredients. Blend well. With pastry blender, cut in shortening until evenly distributed.

Put mix in large, airtight container. Label and store in a cool, dry place. Use within 10 to 12 weeks. Makes about 13 cups of Quick Mix.

Use the Quick Mix to make this rich cake. The batter mixes right in the pan to make a chocolate cake on top with a fudgy sauce underneath. Serve it with a scoop of ice cream.

HOT FUDGE PUDDING CAKE

1 1/2 cups Quick Mix
1/2 cup granulated sugar
2 tps. cocoa
3/4 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla
3/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/4 cup cocoa
1 1/2 cups boiling water
Preheat oven to 350. In an ungreased, 8-inch square pan, combine Quick Mix, granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons cocoa, nuts, milk and vanilla.

Blend well. Combine brown sugar and 1/4 cup cocoa in a small bowl. Sprinkle over top of cake mixture. Gently pour boiling water over the top of the mixture. Do not stir.

Bake 35 to 40 minutes, until edges separate from pan. Cool in pan 15 minutes before serving.

Coalition supporting amendment

A coalition of area organizations supporting ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment has assumed management of the Equal Rights Amendment Center from Dorothy Haegele, who opened the center in Alton a year ago.

With the help of a few volunteers, she has operated the ERA Center, distributing literature regarding the ERA, filling speaking engagements, and keeping the area informed on ERA activities and issues. She cites as the goal "equality of rights under the law."

The ERA Center at 217 W. 3rd St., Alton, will now be under the directorship of a board made up of representatives of several organizations, with Sibyl Belliss of East Alton as president, Gertraude Wittig of Edwardsville as vice-president, Mary Postlewait of Alton as treasurer, and Donna Young of Belleville as secretary.

Organizations as well as individuals who support the Equal Rights Amendment participate in the center by pledging $5 monthly.

A part-time director together with volunteers will operate the center from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. Carol Parish, a college student, is the temporary director.

Groups presently sponsoring the center are ERA Madison County, Metro-East Women's Political Caucus, Alton Area Business and Professional Women's Club, National Organization for Women Metro-East (Granite City) Chapter, STUE Committee, League of Women Voters of the Edwardsville Area, Alton Area and St. Clair County, Alton and Wood River branches of the American Association of University Women, and the Illinois Education Association.

Besides day-to-day activities of providing information regarding the amendment, the ERA Center will provide a speakers' bureau, distribute a newsletter, and act as a catalyst — generating, coordinating and cooperating with the ERA activities of member organizations and of ERA Illinois.

Mrs. Belliss comments, "Ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment is the one goal of the ERA Center, so that the guarantee and protection of our Constitution — which is the birthright of all men — is extended to all women without discrimination."

Tri-City most active port district in region

(Progress report to the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council Board of Directors, presented by Gateway Executive Director Alan C. Richter.)

Before Gateway's planning program began in 1973, there was little activity in the port. As recently as 1973, there were only three inquiries about sites and facilities; our port districts were mostly inactive. Tonnage growth was increasing by only one percent per year compared to national growth of five percent.

Since then, though, the situation has changed. Inquiries are up; we've already had six inquiries—twice as many in six months as in all of '75. Port districts are reviving; tonnage last year increased 3.7 percent compared to a national rate of 3 percent.

Through our planning process, we began to focus energy and attention on port development.

Throughout the process and since the adoption of the plan, interest and attention have been building. The benefits are just beginning to be felt.

Since 1974, we have seen the revitalization of existing port districts; and, in fact, several new districts have been formed.

The Tri-City Regional Port District in Granite City is probably at this time the most active district in the region.

The City of St. Louis Port Authority has been revitalized. The Southwest Regional Port District in St. Clair County and the Kaskaskia Regional Port District are becoming more active.

The Jefferson County Port Authority and the St. Charles County Port Authority have recently formed.

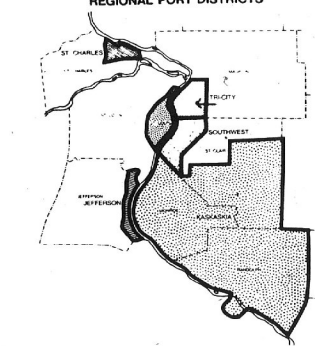

St. Louis County has an application pending in Jefferson City to form a port authority.

With the renewed activity in existing districts and the addition of three new districts, the potential for growth in the port is greatly expanded.

Over the past couple of years there has been about $75 million in capital investment committed in port construction. Just recently, owners of the Mississippi Queen and the Delta Queen announced that St. Louis will be the home base for the two steamboats, which will mean an estimated $14 million per year in revenues to the area.

Also within the past year, the Belle Angeline Restaurant and

PORT OF METROPOLITAN ST. LOUIS REGIONAL PORT DISTRICTS

The Sargeant Floyd River Museum have been added to the recreational vessels already located in the riverfront area.

Even more exciting are the prospects for the future.

The Regional Commerce and Growth Association projects that we can expect to double the Port of Metropolitan St. Louis tonnage capacity in the next five years.

We can reasonably expect to see eight to ten new construction projects totaling about $15 billion in the next three to five years.

In addition, if the appropriations bill for Locks and Dam 26 goes through, that would be another $500 million in construction.

Along another line, action is picking up with Bi-State's Port Council.

The Promotion Committee has adopted a $62,000 national promotion program. The Operations Committee has been working with the Coast Guard, the Corps of Engineers and port operators on insurance and fleet issues.

The Planning and Development Committee has concentrated on two areas. It has polled the individual port districts to determine needs, and they have been discussing recreational needs and uses with recreation and tourism groups, the Corps of Engineers and local governments.

We've been discussing particularly the tourist potential of Gr. nite City Locks and Dam 27 and hope to see some tangible progress very shortly.

The Finance Committee has adopted and is beginning to implement a fund solicitation program.

The Legislative Committee was recently formed to monitor state and federal legislation and to develop legislation needed to support port development.

The Bi-State Agency has itself become more active in implementing the Gateway Plan. The data center called for in the plan was established in March and is operational.

The Bi-State Board last month voted to provide $31,000 to be used as a 50-50 match for cash raised by the Finance Committee for the promotion program.

While I'm very confident that the momentum that has been building will continue, there are some new obstacles—and some old persistent ones—that stand in the way of fully realizing the potential of the port.

One is the recurring issue of coordinating activities with railroad interests.

Another is the issue of Alton Locks and Dam 26. Unless the project goes forward, port development will suffer serious setbacks.

New air quality and floodplain management regulations could also have serious deleterious effects.

There are, of course, other needs that must be addressed. The single most positive step needed is the development of ready-to-go industrial sites.

This activity offers excellent potential for cooperative effort between the public and private sectors.

The potential for both recreational and industrial development in the port has hardly been tapped. With continued efforts on all fronts, we can truly reap the many benefits of our unique location and can realize the full potential that the rivers offer.

Nurse refresher course planned at SE hospital

A six-week refresher program for inactive professional registered nurses will be held at St. Elizabeth Hospital here in cooperation with Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, according to the hospital's nursing education coordinator, Helen DeRuntz, RN.

Classes begin Sept. 4 at 9 a.m. and will be held on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays for the duration. A total of 8.4 continuing education units will be earned by participants, she said.

The fee for the classroom clinical program is $100. For nurses who choose to remain at St. Elizabeth Hospital for one year, reimbursement is being offered by the hospital.

The program is an opportunity for inactive nurses to review and update his or her nursing knowledge and skills in the medical-surgical area of nursing so that he or she can return to the work force, Mrs. DeRuntz said.

Course contents, to be taught by five instructors, include nursing trends today, lab and X-ray procedures, principles of pharmacy, principles of intravenous therapy, patient care in selected medical-surgical conditions and emergencies in medical-surgical conditions.

To register and for additional information, persons may contact Betty Boyd Walker, director of continuing education at the SIUE School of Nursing.

Bargain on Superspass

Eight days of bus riding for seven price of seven will be a bonus offered to young people who purchase Superspass for the week of Aug. 28 through Labor Day, Sept. 4. The extra day is added so that Superspass holders may use the pass on the holiday.

"The Superspass program has exceeded our expectations for the third year in a row and continues to be well received by area youngsters," a spokesman said.

Superspass can be purchased by young people age 19 and under for $1 per week at more than 100 locations in the region. Bonus-week passes may be purchased at most outlets until Aug. 28.

The pass permits unlimited riding on all regular Bi-State local and express buses without the holder having to pay zone or transfer charges.

The pass will be replaced after Labor Day by the 10-day student ticket in Missouri and the Illinois Student Identification Card.

Illinoisian seeking nationwide vote on government spending

ACTU (American Conservative Union) and ACT Now (Americans to Cut Taxes Now) Chairman Congressman Philip M. Crane (R-Ill.) said this week that ACT Now will push for a national referendum on the reduction of federal spending and the creation of a balanced federal budget.

Crane said, $100,000 has been budgeted by ACTU to fund ACT Now projects.

ACT Now will actively lobby for a bill sponsored by Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb.) and Rep. John Ashbrook (R-Ohio) that would allow the public to vote for one of the following:

That a start be made at once to reduce federal spending, and that a balanced budget be reached within a period of the next two fiscal years; or

That the federal government should continue its present practice of deficit financing.

The bill provides that states may voluntarily decide whether or not to place this question on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Results of the vote, while not legally binding, would be forwarded to Congress and the president.

"The incredible rise of the federal budget is appalling to anyone who has a grain of fiscal sense," Cong. Crane commented.

"Year after year, the American people are subjected to a Congress and a president who spend money the Treasury does not have."

"The people deserve an opportunity to reject or approve this policy of deficit spending; they deserve a chance to deliver a message to the free-spending Congress and Administration."

"With a new Congress, many of whose members were elected on tax reduction platforms, the results of such a referendum will give these legislators increased momentum toward fulfilling their campaign promises," Crane concluded.

ACT Now, the newest committee of ACTU, was created in July of this year to continue the work of the ACTU Task Force on Tax Limitation. ACTU has been involved in the issue for the past two years and has assisted all major tax limitation efforts in the country.

Trial period enables disabled to test ability to work, earn

Social Security Administration
East St. Louis

Probably most of the 2,800,000 people getting Social Security disability benefits would rather work if they could. Unfortunately, severe physical or mental impairments rule out gainful activity for nearly all. But others whose disabilities are less severe or whose condition is improving may find they can do some kind of work, even though it is part-time or involves fewer demands than their old jobs.

Too often, these people hesitate accepting employment for fear of losing their Social Security checks.

The Social Security law recognizes the importance not only of providing financial help to disabled people, but also of giving them hope for rehabilitation.

Some are offered vocational rehabilitation services by a state agency. Others manage to return to the work force on their own in spite of their condition, or they may have recovered.

If you are a disabled worker — or a person who became disabled before age 22, receiving benefits on a parent's record — and want to try to work despite a severe disability, you are eligible for a "trial work period" of up to nine months.

During those nine months (not necessarily consecutive), you will continue getting your Social Security checks while you test your ability to work. If after nine months it is decided you are able to do substantial gainful work, your benefits will be paid for an adjustment period of three additional months before they stop.

If it is decided your work is not substantial gainful work, your checks will continue. Sometimes, a person's condition may improve considerably in a short period to the point it is no longer disabling. In this case, benefits are stopped because of medical recovery after a three-month adjustment period even though the trial work period is not over.

Since the trial work provision is intended to give the individual a chance to see if he can hold a job, minor work activity may be disregarded. As a general rule, only months in which you earn more than $50 wages count as a month of trial work.

If you are self-employed, only months in which your net earnings are over $50 or you devote more than 15 hours to the business count as trial work months.

At the end of the trial work period, the amount of earnings is critical in determining whether you can perform substantial gainful work.

The general rule is that if your gross wages (before payroll deductions) are more than $20 a month, you are considered to be doing substantial work.

However, if the work you do is about the same in amount and quality as done by other workers in your area who are not disabled, then it could be considered substantial and gainful, even though you earn less than $20 a month.

By the same token, total income of over $20 a month may sometimes not be considered substantial gainful work. In making a decision, consideration is given to hours worked, duties and job performance. If you are self-employed, other factors such as management activities are taken into account.

Sometimes a disabled worker receives a "subsidy" in addition to actual earnings. This is not counted as "earnings" for the trial work period.

If you are a disabled widow or surviving divorced wife, you are not eligible for a trial work period.

If you are able to do substantial gainful work, benefits will stop three months after your work begins.
If you become disabled a second time within five years after your payments ended, you are not eligible for another trial work period.

Q. I'm feeling much better since my heart attack two years ago and think I might be able to work part-time now. How would this affect my Social Security disability checks?

A. You may be eligible for a "trial work period" of up to nine months. Your benefits will continue during that time while you test your ability to work.

If after that time it is decided you are again able to do substantial gainful work, your checks will be paid for an adjustment period of three additional months before they are stopped. Contact your Social Security office if you plan to work, or to get more information about the trial work period.
Q. What is considered "substantial gainful work" in connection with the nine-month trial work period for people getting Social Security disability benefits?

A. In general, earnings of more than $20 a month are considered substantial and gainful and would cause benefits to stop. However, consideration also is given to hours worked, duties of the job, how the present work compares with past employment, and other factors. For this reason, earnings of less than $20 a month could be considered substantial and gainful.

Q. I'm 17 and getting Social Security checks on the record of my father who is disabled and can't work. Will my benefits stop if I take a job?
A. In 1978, you can earn up to $3,240 and still get all your benefits.
If you earn over $3,240, then $1 in benefits will be withheld for each $2 you earn over that amount.

(Office of Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal)
Q. My regular unemployment compensation insurance benefits have expired. I tried to apply for more, but was told they could not be given to me at this time. Why?

A. After your 26-week unemployment compensation insurance benefits have ended, you cannot receive more regular benefits until your current benefit year has expired. However, you may apply for the Extended Benefits program.

Q. What is the Extended Benefits program?
A. This program, according to federal law, is 13 weeks of benefits financed 50 percent by the state and 50 percent by the federal government.

The program "triggers on" when the national insured unemployment rate is 4.5 percent or greater for 13 consecutive weeks, or the state rate is 5.0 percent or more for 13 consecutive weeks.

Q. How am I notified when these programs begin?

A. You must register with your local job service and unemployment insurance offices of the Illinois Bureau of Employment Security. Notices of the programs taking effect are mailed in advance to all claimants who are determined eligible after they register.

Q. What is the insured unemployment rate and what is it now in Illinois and the nation?

A. The insured unemployment rate is the ratio of individuals claiming unemployment benefits to all individuals covered by unemployment insurance. This rate differs from the unemployment rate due to the exclusion of individuals not covered by unemployment insurance, such as new entrants to the labor force who are unemployed and those individuals re-entering the labor force.

As of the last reporting period, the insured unemployment rate was 4.35 percent in Illinois, and nationally, 3.4 percent. At this time, therefore, no one can receive benefits under the Extended Benefits program.

The final day for the last EB program was July 29, 1978. It is not possible for anyone to predict when it will start again, since that depends entirely on the insured unemployment rate.

Q. How can I find out more information on this program?
A. You may contact your area job service or unemployment insurance offices of the Illinois Bureau of Employment Security, or the Illinois Department of Labor, Room 705, Stratton Building, Springfield 62706.

Troopers offer CPR training

By JON C. LYBARGER
Public Information Officer
Illinois State Police
Maryville District

You are on vacation, having a wonderful time at the beach. You prepare to go swimming and see a crowd of people milling around. You go to see what the activity is and find a small child lying on the sand, not breathing, and people frantically trying to figure out what to do to help. Could you assist by administering CPR techniques?

You are dining in a small, intimate restaurant. A dining companion, suddenly turns ashen, clutches his chest and falls to the floor. He is a known heart attack victim. Could you administer CPR techniques?

You are traveling to a neighboring state for the long-awaited summer vacation. You come upon an accident and stop to aid the victims.

You are comforting one of the victims, who is coherent and concerned about other members of the family, when suddenly he loses consciousness and stops breathing. Could you administer CPR techniques?

These are but a few of the times when cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) has been known to save lives, and could save countless more if people are willing to give just four hours of their lives to help save another life.

Capt. Albert J. Bertagnoli, Illinois State Police Commander of District 11, is proud to announce that five Illinois state troopers are giving instruction in CPR techniques to interested groups in the nine-county area served by District 11.

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) is a life-saving technique involving rescue breathing and closed chest heart massage.

It can be applied to possible deaths: 20,000 Americans have some form of heart and blood vessel disease while 23,000 adults have hypertension, but more than seven million don't know it.

Does it work? You bet your life, and someone else's, that it does. Last year, in Collinsville, a young girl attending her high school graduation saved her grandmother.

In Belleville, a Ph.D. saved a life on a ball diamond.

A retired policeman saved a life at the entrance to a hospital emergency room. Another policeman saved a girl who had something caught in her throat. Illinois State Police first-aid instructors have been giving instruction in CPR. So far this year, 28 groups and/or civic organizations have received the benefit of this training.

In addition, a program initiated by the State Police is offering instruction to all school faculties and senior students within the nine counties encompassed in District 11.

Groups interested in this lifesaving technique may contact the District 11 State Police headquarters at Maryville at 345-1212.

Youth named on trespass charge

Rodney G. Hanner, 19, Bunker Hill, was charged at 4 p.m. Tuesday with criminal trespass to property and contributing to the delinquency of a minor after Hanner and a 16-year-old boy allegedly climbed the fence into Sidener Supply Co., 19th and Adams streets, at 4:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Police were called after youths were seen climbing the company fence and officers, surrounded the yard while two policemen climbed over the fence to search the yard.

Two youths then were seen running in the yard toward the railroad tracks, and then climbing over the fence to a parked train. Police chased them and stopped one about 50 feet north of 19th Street. The other was found lying in weeds between sets of railroad tracks, officers reported.

Both were handcuffed and taken to the police station for questioning by detectives. The charges against Hanner were signed by a judge here Tuesday afternoon and the 16-year-old was referred to juvenile authorities.

Meeting may play a constructive role in preventing sale of beer and wine to 14-to-18 age group in Granite City

A meeting that has been called for next Monday, Aug. 28, may go a long way toward eliminating a problem that has been developing lately. People of almost any age have been able to obtain alcoholic beverages, challenging both the legal and common-sense limitations.

Certainly, many Granite City liquor licenses for a strict policy in trying to limit beer and wine sales to 19- and 20-year-olds, as stipulated by Illinois law. Persons 21 and older can legally buy those items and the many varieties of liquor.

Yet, some establishments evidently have been lax. Police have been vigilant, and the commissioner has been active in ordering numerous license suspensions.

The situation nevertheless has been getting out of hand, particularly in the downtown area, and next week's meeting is intended to solve whatever factors are the cause.

As noted here on Monday, recent cases have involved teenagers as young as 14 years old (Aug. 17) at a Delmar Avenue location. So, it is not just the image, but the reality of the situation that is at fault.

Relatively frequent week-hour street crowds numbering in the hundreds have placed public safety in potential, and sometimes actual, jeopardy. If continued unchecked, this would be a disaster.

Citizens with officials and proprietors well in working out fair, enforceable policies.

As Pogo might have said it in his cartoon, we've found the air pollution enemy and he is us — Gateway Council

East-West Gateway Coordinating Council — When you think of air pollution, do you envision yourself in your car during rush hour, perhaps caught in a traffic jam — your car, along with all those others, spewing poisonous gases into the atmosphere?

Do you see a gasoline station attendant filling a gas tank and clouds of vapor rising from the tank into the air? Probably not.

Most people think of factories with smokestacks belching clouds of dirty smoke, and they think that the only thing needed to stop pollution is to filter what comes out of those smokestacks. The problem is that in the St. Louis area, most of the pollution that we have today comes not from "them" but from "us."

It comes from all of us who drive cars, and especially those of us who drive by ourselves. We clog the highway with lots of cars during rush hour; we sit at the curb with the motor running waiting for someone we don't ride buses.

We hate the inconvenience of carpools; we park in no-parking zones on the street and tie up traffic; we don't take good care of our cars; they build scrubbers for their smokestacks; they pay fines if they violate standards. What do "we" do? What can we do?

Mostly we complain about "them." But there are things that we can do (or that can be done to us) to reduce pollution from cars and other mobile sources.

A number of these are being examined as part of Gateway's effort to involve local citizens and elected officials in developing plans for reducing pollution levels. By discussing various suggestions and selecting those that are most acceptable locally, we hope to have, having harsh restrictions imposed by others.

Several options appear to offer high potential for reducing pollution with relatively minor negative impact: traffic flow improvements (including such things as signal synchronization and turning lanes); an areawide carpool program.

A state-sanctioned automobile inspection and maintenance program; an improved transit system, including park-and-ride lots and fringe parking; and employer-sponsored incentive programs to encourage carpools, vanpools, transit use, bicycling and walking.

Other suggestions, although they may be attractive in theory, may not be so workable. These include imposing tolls on single-occupancy cars, restricting use of cars on selected streets, and exclusive lanes for buses and carpools.

These options are meant to discourage people from driving by themselves.

Those who oppose such actions argue that they would have serious negative economic impacts and that — rather than reducing air pollution — the resulting traffic congestion from installing toll facilities and exclusive lanes, for instance, would actually make the problem worse.

No single approach has been adopted, although the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is requiring states where there are pollution problems to commit themselves to adopting automobile inspection and maintenance programs. Illinois and Missouri are both in this category.

The federal law adopted in 1977 imposes harsh sanctions in areas that do not take measures to reduce pollution. As the law is presently written, these sanctions would require a cut-off of federal funds for construction of highways and sewage treatment facilities, and would impose a cessation on the issuance of emission permits.

Such actions would effectively put a halt to any new industrial development or major public construction in the region. Thus, it becomes increasingly important for the region's citizens to support local voluntary and individual action.

People are spending more for health care than they did before Medicare was passed

By RICHARD L. LESHER
President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

"When adjusted for inflation, Medicare beneficiaries spent more out-of-pocket for health care last year than they did in 1968, the year Medicare was passed."

"The Medicare nightmare is that — after all these years and all the billions of dollars spent — the elderly are back at square one with respect to their health security."

That quote is from a letter Senator Kennedy sent to The Wall Street Journal.

His diagnosis of the problems the government caused by pouring billions of dollars into ill-conceived and poorly administered national health care programs is quite good, except for one omission:

He should have noted that needless federal spending has generated the very inflation that is now the number one problem for the elderly and the rest of us as well.

The other problem is one which our own continuing studies of the health care industry unfailingly turn up: There is not enough individual incentive to control costs. Insurance now pays 80 percent of the hospital bills and 66 percent of the doctors' bills.

Under these circumstances, medical personnel don't have much cause to worry about what they're charging the patient, because they know the patient has insurance.

The patient doesn't have much cause to worry about his own health, either, for the same sudden outpouring of federal money into the system when Medicare and Medicaid came along.

The supply of funds available to spend on health care increased much faster than the supply of hospital and medical personnel, etc. And money, like water, seeks its own level. That problem is admittedly temporary, unless we repeat the initial mistake.

The need for a new national health care plan is hardly self-evident. Roughly 90 percent of us already have health insurance of one kind or another. Any gaps in the current system can be filled at a reasonable cost, which is what President Carter seems to be proposing.

The president's approach is the proper one because the two factors most responsible for the upward spiral of medical costs would both be aggravated by a universal government-run program.

One of these factors was the reason.

And the insurance companies can simply pass their costs along to the insured (which often means the insured's employer).

One proposed solution to lax cost-control is the Health Maintenance Organization, (HMO), which makes more money when its patients stay well than it does when they get sick.

Thus, the emphasis is on preventive care for the well and effective treatment at the lowest possible cost for the ill.

Another solution is peer review, in which panels of physicians rule on the cost-effectiveness of the treatment selected by other physicians.

Still another helpful idea is to find a way to protect physicians from frivolous or malicious malpractice suits, so they will not need to order more tests than are medically necessary.

All of these ideas — and many more — can be used in concert to control costs without undermining the quality.

The National Chamber will soon begin a community-oriented program to acquaint citizens and businesses with the most effective of the cost-control and health-improvement techniques, based on a study done under the auspices of the National Chamber Foundation. The research was conducted by InterStudy, an independent health policy analysis and research firm.

We can have good health care at an affordable price, if we are guided by reason rather than politics.

But the era of massive, expensive, inefficient federal "solutions" to social problems is over, as most people clearly realize. In time, we suppose, the word will reach even Senator Kennedy.

Tax ceiling petitions filed, Gov. Thompson promises detailed plan

Governor James R. Thompson vowed Wednesday to announce a specific proposal for placing ceilings on taxes and spending before voters cast their ballots Nov. 7 on the "Thompson Proposition."

Thompson's announcement was made after he filed 607,677 signatures on petitions to force the Illinois State Board of Elections Monday to place the proposition on the ballot.

The board had required $89,418 signatures, or 10 percent of the state's registered voters.

"As far as I am concerned it's a contract between me and the people of the state of Illinois," Gov. Thompson said.

"The people who signed this (petition) had to put their faith and trust in me that we would come up with the specifics for ceilings on spending and taxes in time for people to know what they're voting for in November."

"At least this much has been accomplished. The people of the state of Illinois will have the chance to say for themselves whether they want a ceiling on spending, whether they want a ceiling on taxes."

This will be on the ballot, and the people's will must be done in November. I hope it's a resounding "yes."

Thompson congratulated and commended "the Thompson campaign, the Republican party, the Democrats and independent groups who helped put this together."

The governor said that getting approval of the proposition in November will come as a major part of his campaign time between now and then.

A rival petition drive to force the governor to call a constitutional convention for governor by State Comptroller Michael Bakalis, a Democrat.

"I am going to campaign my best to make sure this gets the biggest vote in the history of the state," the governor said.

He and dozens of volunteers filed the petitions with the State Board of Elections at 4:30 p.m. Monday, ten minutes before the deadline for filing.

The petitions were bound in a 1,600-page volume containing 43,020 pages, and were carried on a plank nearly 30 feet long.

The governor said that never before in the history of the state had so many signatures been gathered in such a short time.

Thousands of campaign workers and volunteers collected the more than 600,000 signatures in 35 days.

A rival petition drive by the Illinois Coalition for Political Honesty, headed by a former aide of 1972-76 Democratic Governor Daniel Walker, failed to obtain enough signatures by the deadline this week.

Both Thompson and Bakalis have sought to seize the taxing, spending limitation issue and use it to bolster their campaigns for the state's top office.

Walker lost in the spring 1976 primary to Michael Howlett, who then was defeated by Thompson in the gubernatorial election that fall.

The governor and other state officials were elected in 1976 to unique two-year terms to eliminate their campaigning from future presidential election years. Four-year state terms will be decided Nov. 7 and on subsequent occasions.

How big a U. S. 'partnership' in Middle East?

(Near East Report)

The last nine months of on-again, off-again negotiations between Israel and Egypt have been marked by euphoric highs and depressed lows.

So if there is to be any real progress when President Carter, President Sadat and Prime Minister Begin meet at Camp David, Md., on September 5, the first lesson is to avoid getting carried away in advance with unrealistic expectations.

There was no quick peace after Sadat and Begin met last year, partly because the expectations produced by the meetings were so hard to meet.

Even the low expectations going into the Leeds Castle talks between the Egyptian and Israeli foreign ministers last month turned out to be too high when Sadat announced there would be no more talks until Israel agreed to a complete withdrawal from the West Bank and Gaza.

On the other hand, there is probably no other expression that is both as true and as optimistic as the affirmation: "The last chance for peace."

The Camp David summit offers a great opportunity to get substantive negotiations going again, but it is far from either a panacea or a last chance.

It would be unfortunate if it were a last chance, but artificial deadlines and diplomatic drama will not necessarily contribute to the peace process.

President Carter and Secretary of State Vance are to be commended for their successful effort to get Egypt's Sadat back into face-to-face contact with Israel's Begin.

It is worth noting that Sadat readily accepted the invitation just a week after the first public criticism of him by the administration.

Sadat's apparent reversal — an about-face from a position conditionally with Begin just days after saying he would never do so — was either a recognition that Carter was finally using some leverage on proper Egyptian behavior, or Sadat's desire for direct American participation in the talks.

That Sadat got in return for accepting the invitation to the presidential retreat was a statement from Vance, echoed later by Carter, that Washington would henceforth be a "full partner" in the negotiations.

If the statement was meant only as a rhetorical gesture, it is acceptable; the United States cannot be an indispensable partner in the negotiations in the sense that no other country has the influence to push for serious negotiations from both sides.

But there is also the potential for a serious mistake in the new partnership. Even as rhetoric, it muddies the waters.

The phrase "full partner" has an ominous ring, especially if it has insisted on it so long.

Its interpretation is undoubtedly that the United States is a full partner with Egypt and has as much right as Cairo to propose its own peace plan. A plan Sadat assumes would favor the Arab position over Israel's.

Some commentators have likened the American partnership in the Middle East negotiations to Theodore Roosevelt's mediation of the Russo-Japanese War in 1905.

They conveniently remember that Roosevelt's mediation won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1906; they often forget that the pro-Russian treaty he hammered out was one of several proposals that led indirectly to Pearl Harbor.

One area in which an American proposal could make a mistake is on the question of defensible borders for Israel. The view of the Carter administration has long been that there should be only "minor rectifications" of the borders that existed before the Six-Day War of 1967; that position is clearly inconsistent with American proposals.

When he meets with Menachem Begin and Jimmy Carter at Camp David, Anwar Sadat would be well advised to negotiate on Israel's offer rather than rely on the United States to get him what he could not obtain on the battlefield or at the negotiating table.

Israel's security needs, which call for border changes that Egypt would consider unacceptable, are not only significant changes in his own territory, but they are agreed with but were prepared to push his argument for the most the minor changes?

Lost anyone forget, the most significant border adjustments occurred in 1967, when Israel took Sinai, the West Bank, Gaza and Golan a victory that most of the world either applauded publicly or admired privately.

Anyone who views Israel as expansionist simply overlooks its consistent efforts to withdraw from over 90 percent of the territory it occupied.

When he meets with Menachem Begin and Jimmy Carter at Camp David, Anwar Sadat would be well advised to negotiate on Israel's offer rather than rely on the United States to get him what he could not obtain on the battlefield or at the negotiating table.

State cost-cutting will halt needed vision and hearing screening here

To the Editor:

Election day is coming, and again the governor of Illinois seems very concerned with impressing the voters by cutting costs.

I think the people should be aware that cutting costs often means cutting service to the people.

The Direct Service Vision and Hearing Screening Program, operated through the Department of Public Health for the past eight years, has been completely eliminated in Illinois as of Aug. 31, 1978.

This means only children in schools with school nurses who receive vision and hearing screening.

In Madison County, 4,200 children in 50 Lutheran, Roman Catholic and other parochial schools, and some public schools without nurses, and 3,200 children in 50 preschools and day care centers will not receive vision and hearing screening.

In the Granite City area, here is a listing of schools affected by the loss of this program: St. Elizabeth, St. Margaret Mary, St. Joseph, St. Mary and St. Mark, Lakeview Academy, Trechouse East Nursery, Cloverview Child Care, Inc., of Tots, Tri-City Day Care, Little Lamb, St. Peter School for the Young Years, Park District

Pre-School, Kiddie Korner, Happy Days, Humpty-Dumpty, Kiddie Castle, and Venice-Lincoln Tech Pre-school.

In Madison County last year, 387 children were referred to doctors for possible problems in vision and/or hearing.

Without regular screening, these problems are often caught too late to be taken care of in a simple and inexpensive manner.

Statistics show that one in four children have a vision defect, and 92 percent are treatable if found early; one in ten children have a hearing defect, and 90 percent can be corrected if found early.

Further, when a child has a permanent loss of hearing in one ear, monitoring the hearing of the good ear becomes doubly important.

Vision and Hearing, Region 4, Department of Public Health

These children's parents have come to rely on public health technicians to keep them advised on their children's hearing. This coming school year, it won't be done.

Six of us technicians in this area have lost our jobs.

I have worked for this program for five years and, of course, regret losing my job. However, I really care about what we were doing — and believe we were providing an important service.

I deeply regret the loss of this program.

KASKASKIA — The people of Kaskaskia, the state's oldest town and site of Illinois' first capital, are having a summer for us all to remember.

There has been both good news and bad news. Both need to be remembered, but let's go to the bad news first.

The citizens of little Kaskaskia, located on the Mississippi River about midway between St. Louis and Cairo, have been without their school buildings for five years. They had hoped to have a new school ready for use this September.

They know now that this is not going to happen. There is emerging the possibility that it may never happen.

The fact is that the unseeing and unseeing octopus of the federal bureaucracy may have now made impossible the development of a new school to replace the one damaged by the massive Mississippi River flood five years ago.

The river now actually surrounds Kaskaskia, which has been an island since 1910, when in another flood the river formed a new channel so that the main stream runs east of the town while the old channel remains to its west.

The small Kaskaskia grade school (there are currently about 25 children in the school district) consisted of two buildings, a school where classes were held and the gymnasium.

The flood damaged the school building so extensively that federal disaster relief officials demolished that building, and set aside $500,000 to build a new school.

The gym was less severely damaged and was made ready for repair. Mobile units were brought in so school could be held until the new building could be erected.

At this point the federal bureaucracy began applying its "guidelines and rulings."

Before there could be a new building, there would have to be a plan to assure the building of a new school nor the remodeling of the gym would be allowed because of a ruling just issued by the Federal Insurance Administration that no one be encouraged to live in Kaskaskia anyway.

Fortunately the citizens of little Kaskaskia have had other exciting matters on which to focus this summer. Preparations for the nearly two years, Kaskaskia new structure would be safe from future floods.

There were many proposals made. One called for building the school structure on "air rights" far above the ground to be safe from future floods.

Several plans later, there finally evolved one which did seem practical. This called for remodeling the gymnasium, an existing building to which the railings and guidelines did not apply, into the new school.

This was the plan that raised hopes for having a new school by this September, but it was not to be.

Early in May the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare reported that neither the tailed a full-blown reenactment of the taking of Kaskaskia, a French frontier town, by the American George Rogers Clark.

Faithful reproductions were made of the clothing worn by the soldiers and townspeople on that fateful day before noon Clark and a company of American soldiers suddenly descended on the town from the Illinois wilderness, took over the town, hauled down the French flag and raised the American colors. It occurred on the second anniversary of signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Sadly, the efforts were not directed against the French but against the British who were attempting to take everything, the Mississippi River and the eastern mountains, as a part of a plan for turning the coastal area into a colony.

When the peace treaty finally was drawn bringing Revolutionary War to a close, the area from Ohio to Wisconsin and south to Tennessee was ceded by the British to the Americans.

George Rogers Clark won the land on which today seven states, including Illinois, are situated.

State aid to private schools still debated

By RITA GILLMON

The modern Supreme Court has almost reversed the original understanding of the two religion clauses in the First Amendment to the Constitution, according to Michael J. Malbin, a scholar with the American Enterprise Institute (AEI) for Public Policy Research.

In a study called "Religion and Politics," recently released by the AEI, Malbin contends a return to the original intent of the authors of the First Amendment would remove the constitutional cloud from legislative proposals to aid private schools and other measures that might aid religion.

The two clauses are contained in 16 words: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

Malbin, a contributing editor to "National Journal," has a doctorate in government from Cornell University. He made a speech-by-speech analysis of the debates on freedom of religion in the First U.S. Congress.

He concludes that the amendment's authors did not intend to prohibit all non-discriminatory aid to religion. Rather, he argues that the authors of the amendment meant to prevent Congress from preferring any particular religious sect or group of sects over others.

He also said they meant to prohibit Congress from doing anything to harm then existing state religious establishments.

Many times in recent history, Congress has attempted to pass legislation that would provide money for children who attend parochial schools, either for textbooks or transportation, but it has been unsuccessful because of lobbying by those who say it would be support for religion.

Since most parochial schools are Roman Catholic, the opponents of aid contend it would blur the separation of church and state. Malbin's contention is that Congress intended for the government to provide support for religion, if it was done even-handedly.

Land grants were given to church schools, such as in the Northwest Ordinance (of 1787), he said. He said that every one of the speakers in the First Congress seemed to agree that the Bill of Rights should not prevent the government from giving non-discriminatory assistance to religion "as long as the assistance is incidental to the performance of a power delegated to the government."

According to this argument, aid to education or services for children could be supported by the government through church institutions as well as public ones.

Church-and-state issues generate a lot of controversy between church supporters and those who fear their influence on the secular society.

Churches, on the other hand, are jealous of the right to run their own affairs without interference from government.

In a recent case involving the National Labor Relations Board, a federal appellate court ruled that the NLRB lacks jurisdiction to order union elections in Roman Catholic schools in Chicago and western Indiana dioceses over the opposition of their bishops.

According to Christianity Today magazine, the U.S. solicitor general has appealed to the Supreme Court, charging that the bishops' position gives them a "constitutional right to commit unfair labor practices."

The appeal contends the ruling "restricts the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act from some 100,000 lay teachers in Catholic schools who tried to secure union elections."

The Christianity Today article asks, "Are Catholic schools too religious to receive government aid and not religious enough to be excluded from its regulations?"

Another case drawing opposition from at least two churches is a recent U.S. Labor Department ruling that parochial schools must pay unemployment taxes for their teachers and other employees.

Both the Roman Catholic church and the Lutheran church's Missouri Synod are objecting, not so much to the tax as to the ruling's conclusion that the schools are not an integral part of the church.

This ruling, according to memos circulated by the U.S. Catholic Conference and the Missouri Synod, goes against previous rulings by the Supreme Court and the Internal Revenue Service.

"I am upset that federal departments can define what is or is not church," Missouri Synod President J.A.O. Preus said in a letter to state officials.

The synod is advising its churches to file the forms and say they are excluded from the tax. The Catholics have been advised to pay under protest to "preserve their rights."

Health Tips Offered For Back to School

Schools days are at hand again for millions of American youngsters.

The American Medical Association once again reminds parents that there are health and safety considerations that are important in preparing the small fry for another nine months of studies.

The AMA recommends a thorough health examination for 5 and 6-year-olds, entering school for the first time. Your physician will know what to do. His examination will cover all aspects of your child's health, and will include hearing (to make certain he can hear the teacher) and vision (to make sure he can see the blackboard). The doctor also will give any booster immunizations that might be required.

School boards in some communities require a health exam for beginning students. Many schools also require certain immunizations. Your doctor will know of the requirements of your neighborhood.

Most doctors feel that four or five thorough health examinations during the school years are sufficient for healthy youngsters. These usually are spaced at the start of the first year, about the fourth grade, about the seventh grade, at the ninth or tenth grade, and upon graduation.

A thorough examination is important, often mandatory, if the child is participating in school athletics. The doctor should be told that junior is going out for football, so that he can look for any health problems that might be heightened by rough contact sports.

In the excitement of the first few days of school the small child may forget all of the safety warnings you've been teaching him. Each parent should make certain the child knows how to cross streets and intersections en route to and from school. He should know that crossing guards are there for his protection and obey them. He should know about proper deportment on the school bus. And he should know the rules of bicycle safety.

Terminal cars derailed on McKinley bridge

A derailment of several cars on an Illinois Terminal train damaged the deck of the McKinley Bridge at Venice early Wednesday morning.

Cause of the derailment was undetermined. The cars left the track at the west end of the superstructure and gouged ruts in the paved decking of the bridge for approximately one-quarter of a mile.

The derailment occurred at 3:55 a.m. Train crews cleared the derailment by 5:30. Vehicle traffic was not tied up by the incident.

MADISON WARNING SYSTEM. The above diagram shows the three signals to be used in warning the public. Alert—sustained double tone alert signal (tornado sighted or approaching). Attack—undulating double tone or wailing (take cover—enemy attack imminent). Fire—alternating high-low sound ascending the scale and dual tone descending (used from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.). All three signals are distinctive and residents are being urged to learn to recognize the difference. A test is planned between 7 and 7:30 tonight.

Test

1003 Thunderbolt siren, the same signal device used in several locations in Granite City's network of warning sirens.

Most of Granite City's seven sirens are located in residential neighborhoods, where they were installed some years ago. The Madison siren is installed on top of the Madison Memorial Center at Seventh and Lee streets.

The location was not determined at random, nor by accident, Krakowiecki explained.

A computerized assessment was conducted by the Federal company, utilizing such information as the city's size, boundaries, prevailing wind pattern and other variables.

Results of the assessment survey showed a very narrow area in which the siren could be installed for maximum efficiency and to produce a guaranteed 70 decibel sound level at the extreme fringes of the city.

Under terms of a federal grant through which the signal device was purchased, a sound level of no less than 70 decibels must be reached.

The manufacturer of the device is required to insure its performance, also under state and federal specifications, Krakowiecki said.

To attain the required levels at the city's outskirts, the siren has to be loud at its source, he added.

The purpose of a warning system is to warn the public to danger, he stressed.

In addition to the alert (tornado) signal and the attack (enemy) signal, Madison is using a third signal to call its volunteer fire department members.

"We rely on a siren to alert them to a fire and the firemen have long complained they could not hear the present siren," especially indoors during the wintertime.

"We all want our firemen to respond as quickly as possible to a fire. The new alarm will be easily heard in any part of town, when the loss of minutes could mean the loss of lives," Krakowiecki said.

"With the new siren, all our residents will know if a tornado is approaching the city and not just the ones living close enough to the old siren to hear the signal clearly."

"This siren will afford every one of our citizens an opportunity to protect themselves and their families."

"It has to be a comforting thought that all our schools now will hear a warning signal and be able to take protective measures," Krakowiecki said.

Madison's new public warning system was acquired by Madison County Civil Defense through a federal grant which pays up to 50 percent of the total cost.

Low bidder on the equipment was the Towers Fire Apparatus Co. of Freeburg, Ill., with a bid of $6,945.

The installation hardware, electrical circuits, a concrete pad and other items, essential to installation, has brought the total cost of the new siren to about $8,000.

Krakowiecki addressed the Madison City Council Tuesday night, acknowledging the complaints the city has been receiving that the siren is too loud.

"We had very little control over where it (siren) went. . . . We had to put it where it is to get the federal grant, or we would have had to pay for it," the civil defense director stated.

Once the equipment is thoroughly tested, the siren will be used only for emergencies, except for a regular test at 10 a.m. on the first Tuesday of each month, Krakowiecki told the Madison aldermen.

Farley promoted

Lyle O. Farley, formerly of Granite City, has been appointed secretary-treasurer of Hydromation Company, Livonia, Mich., a division of Amsted Industries. The appointment was announced by Richard H. Wykoff, Hydromation president.

Farley had been manager of cost and systems at Amsted since October 1977.

He joined the Amsted organization in 1966 as a member of the graduate development program and three years later was named projects coordinator in the Amsted accounting department.

In 1972, Farley was appointed assistant works controller at the Granite City Works of American Steel Foundries, an Amsted division.

In 1973, he was named works controller at the ASF plant in Indiana Harbor, Ind., and in 1975 works controller at the ASF plant in Alliance, Ohio.

Farley earned a business administration degree from the University of South Dakota in 1966. He, his wife, Mary, and their two children will live in Northville, Mich.

Hydromation designs, builds and installs equipment and systems to purify, recycle and treat industrial liquids.

Tin mill product price hike by National Steel

National Steel Corporation announced that it will raise prices of its tin mill products by approximately three percent, which it said is in line with the increase it announced several months ago for all other steel products.

"We have discussed this limited price increase with various members of the Administration in Washington. We believe it is a moderate step that is in keeping with President Carter's anti-inflation program," said George A. Simson, chairman of National Steel.

The increase will be effective at 12:01 a.m. Oct. 1.

Tin mill products represented 6.4 percent of total steel industry shipments in the first six months of 1978.

Some buyers voiced surprise Wednesday at the time of the action, which follows a 6.8 percent decline in tin mill product shipments during the first half of this year. A National Steel spokesman responded, "The level of demand is good."

The U.S. Council on Wage and Price Stability on Tuesday said the planned increase is "the competition of a previously reviewed price action. This brings tin plate up into line with other products."

National Steel Produces proportionately more lightweight steel products than some of the other major steelmakers. Tin mill and similar products are believed to account for about a fifth of National Steel's shipments.

Alumni giving is increasing

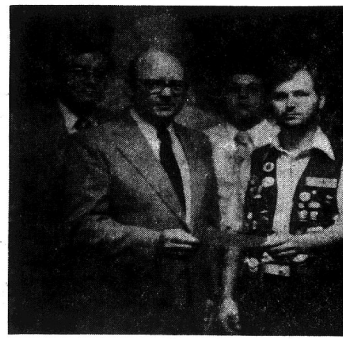

Alumni contributions to St. Louis University rose 14 percent during 1977-78, for a record total of $818,295, it was announced yesterday by Gerard K. Gunther Jr., chairman of the Alumni Development Council.

Gunther said 7,047 alumni made gifts averaging $116 each in the year ended June 30. Average gift during the preceding year was $98, for a total of $717,787.

"Following the most successful alumni solicitation in the history of the University," he said, "I am convinced we can reach the $1 million mark this year or next." Gunther, treasurer of the Gunther-Sall Co., is serving as volunteer leader of alumni solicitation for the university's current $35 million "keystone campaign."

Launched April 1, 1977, the drive is seeking $14 million for academic operations, $15 million for capital improvements and $6 million for institutional endowment. The projected campaign goal for alumni is $4,395,000, of which $1,600,000 has been raised.

MAJOR CONTRIBUTION of $1,000 by the Granite City Jaycees has sparked the successful completion of the first phase of a two-year Chamber of Commerce project to acquire Christmas decorations for downtown Granite City streets. One hurt in 6-vehicle accident

One person was injured and six vehicles were damaged in a chain reaction accident on Route 111 at Sand Prairie Lane in Nameoki Township at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Injured was Jerome Ashman, 53, of Collinsville, driver of the third car in a line of six involved in the accident. He was taken by a Thomas Ambulance to Oliver Anderson Hospital at Maryville where he was treated for pains to the chest, x-rayed and released.

Madison County sheriff's deputies reported the accident occurred when a Hi-State bus driven by Tyrone Scales, 36, St. Louis, struck the rear of a van driven by Terry Doolen, 20, of E. Alton. Scales said the brakes on the bus failed to hold as he attempted to stop behind the Doolen car.

The impact knocked the Doolen van into the rear of a car driven by Marilyn Jones, 43, of 488 Highway 162, Granite City, pushing it into the rear of the car driven by Ashman. His car struck that driven by Marilyn R. Harris, 36, Wood River, which in turn struck the rear of a car driven by Lula Somers, 34, Alton.

The Somers car was stopped on Route 111 to make a left turn into Sand Prairie Lane when the crash occurred, according to deputies.

There were 21 passengers on the bus. None of them was injured.

Officers said the Somers car was damaged in the rear and the four vehicles behind that car received front and rear damage in excess of $200 each. The bus was not damaged.

Charge is filed in disturbance

Edward Lee Abney, 44, of Granite City, was charged with disorderly conduct by Madison County sheriff's deputies following a disturbance call to the 100 block of Fourth Street, Madison.

Deputies said Earl Browning, 1918 Wood St., was struck with a stick and suffered a cut on the right forearm in the disturbance. Abney was arrested when deputies alleged he began using abusive language.

New Yule decorations for downtown streets

Because of a large contribution from the Granite City Jaycees, phase one of a drive to acquire new Christmas street decorations is nearing completion. The new decorations will be erected throughout the entire downtown Granite City shopping area.

Spearheading the drive are two Granite City committees: the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce. These are the Downtown Development Committee and the Downtown Retail Promotion Committee.

Past efforts to provide downtown Christmas street decorations have been limited to a small group of downtown merchants. Operating from such a limited financial base, it was possible to decorate only 19th Street from State Street to Nieringhaus Avenue, a spokesman said.

The Downtown Development Committee studied the cost of decorating all downtown streets within the primary shopping area including Nieringhaus Avenue from Madison Avenue to Cleveland Blvd., 20th Street from Grand Avenue to Delmar Avenue, 19th Street from Grand Avenue to Cleveland Boulevard, State Street from 18th Street to Nieringhaus Avenue, Edison Avenue from 18th Street to 21st Street and Delmar Avenue from 18th Street to 20th Street. The minimum cost necessary to adequately decorate these downtown streets was estimated to be $15,000.

The committee requested financial assistance of the City of Granite City. Mayor Paul Schuler, with the support of downtown alderpersons Lloyd Bailey and Margaret Norn, suggested the city contribute funds to match private contributions up to a maximum of $2,500.

With this incentive, the Downtown Development and Retail Promotion committees initiated a letter and telephone solicitation among downtown businesses, service clubs, professional offices and industries.

The original goal was to reach the total fund required of $15,000 over a period of three years. However, initial response was so great, triggered by an early contribution of $1,000 by the Granite City Jaycees, that the time program for acquisition has been shortened to two years.

Strategic Air Command tour by Vadalabene

State Senator Sam M. Vadalabene, Democrat-56th District, departed Wednesday morning with a group of state legislators for the Strategic Air Command (SAC) headquarters at Offutt Air Force Base, Omaha, Neb.

Sen. Vadalabene, along with the other members of the group, will spend two days at the SAC headquarters, where they will attend a complete briefing on the mission and responsibilities of the Air Force.

Arrangements for the trip to Offutt and for the briefing were made by the Illinois Air National Guard and the U.S. Air Force.

"This is an ideal opportunity for myself and other members of the legislature to review and receive a complete briefing on the Strategic Air Command, and to learn first-hand of the operation of the Illinois Air National Guard and the overall defense of our nation."

Mercer gets six in sixth to advance

ST. ANNE, MO. — Mercer of Granite City came up with six runs in the sixth inning here Tuesday night to defeat the Fenton Vets 8-5 in a loser's bracket game of the Tournament of Champions being played here through Sunday at ABC Park.

Pat Peterson's two-run double highlighted the Mercers scoring outburst. The team went into the frame trailing 5-2.

Mercer centerfielder Jim Greenwald started the sixth inning off with a base-on-balls. He stole second and moved to third on a passed ball by Fenton catcher Jim West. He scored on a single by second baseman Bob Hughes.

Mercer designated batter Tim Summers stroked a single to right field which sent Hughes to second, still with nobody out.

First baseman Bill Lee then executed a perfect bunt down the third base line which he beat out for a single which loaded the bases with none out.

Bob McPherson, who had come into the game in right field in the fifth inning in place of Eldon Warfield, hit a single through the hole scored Hughes and kept the bases loaded with still nobody out.

After catcher Ken Schaeke struck out for the first out of the inning, Centerfielder Jack Scarborough hit a high hopper to the second baseman which managed to score Summers, even though Scarborough was thrown out.

Then Peterson stepped to the plate and slammed a double down the left field line which scored Lee and McPherson.

The final run of the inning was scored when Greenwald, batting for the second time in the inning, singled in Peterson from second.

Fenton had taken an early 5-0 lead going into the third inning by scoring two runs in the second inning and three more in the top of the third.

But Mercer rallied two in its half of the third to cut the Fenton lead.

Peterson started things off in the Mercer third inning with a single. He was driven in by third baseman John Urban's triple. Urban then crossed the plate on a single by Greenwald.

Stan Osterbur was the winning pitcher. Mercer will play again tomorrow (Friday) night at 6 o'clock against the winner of the Music Room Vets-Legion All-Stars game.

In order to capture the championship, Mercer will have to win six games in three days, coming out of the loser's bracket. In case Mercer (or Music Room) advances to the championship tilt Sunday, the Illinois Inter-City Baseball League championship series, opening doubleheader will be moved back one week.

Mercer is scheduled to meet Music Room at Van Praetier Park in East Alton at 1 p.m. in a doubleheader in the best two-out-of-three championship series. If a third game is necessary, it will be played the following Sunday at 2 p.m. at Wilson Park. The doubleheader games set for this Sunday will be seven-inning games. The third game (if necessary) will be a nine-inning affair.

Gallatin optimistic

Cougar golfers to begin practice

By AL BARNES
EDWARDSVILLE — With a definite field of 12 teams, and possibly more expected to report, Coach Harry Gallatin has announced he will start fall practice sessions for the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville golf team, Monday, Sept. 11, at Belk Park in Wood River.

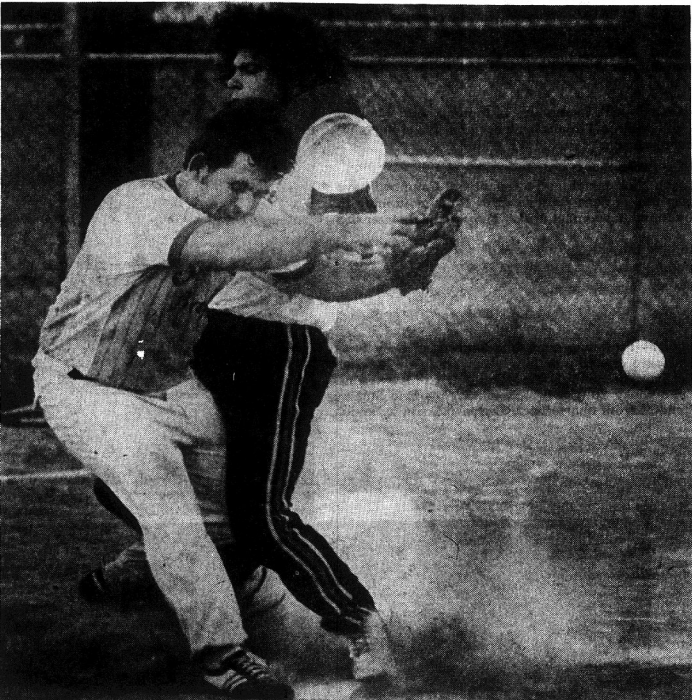

Gallatin's golfers won't have too much time to hone their games before they'll be starting their seven-meet fall schedule, opening in the Sycamore Classic at Terre Haute, Ind., and concluding Oct. 14 at the Western Illinois University Invitational Tournament at Macomb.

Back on the SIUE golf team will be eight lettermen: Les Agne, Belleville West; Dave Dean, Florida, but formerly of Edwardsville; Tim Gehrig, Alhambra; Steve Gower, Quincy; Mark Hofstetter, Springfield; Guy Phillips, Belleville East; Jim Russell, Quincy; and Stan Sameska, Collinsville. Commenting on the three newcomers, Gallatin said:

Derek Dolenc — An outstanding prep star at Alton High and one of the top prospects in the Metro-East area.

Two others, both "walk ons," could surprise by earning a team berth: Jim Hodnapp of Troy and Steve Slattery of Alton.

Additional fall golf meets for the Cougars are: Sept. 21-24 — Northern Iowa University Classic, Cedar Falls, Iowa; Sept. 30 — SIUE Invitational, Belk Park Course, Wood River; Oct. 1-2 — Illinois Intercollegiate, Evansville, Ind.; Oct. 9 — annual match with SIUE Alumni Team, St. Louis.

The tourney will continue at parks (the women's tournament is at Wilson Park) in Granite City area. All men's games are at either West Granite Park or Worthen Park.

Can Shirley be beaten?

The question being asked by some fans at Tri-City Speedway now is, "Can anyone beat Dan Shirley?" In the sprint car ranks, and some of the other drivers are responding a resounding "Yes."

Shirley from Lincoln, Ill., winner of the last four feature races at Tri-City, has had luck on his side and has won only by inches on most occasions.

Kenny Schrader of Kirkwood, Mo., who dominated the sprint car ranks earlier in the season, believes he has the speed and ability to top Shirley, and nearly proved it July 30, but got caught behind a slower car he was lapping just before the finish line.

"Lady Luck" again cleared a path for Shirley to go through to win the event.

The competition is getting rougher as several drivers from the tough Indiana circuit are accepting the challenge of beating the Lincoln, Ill., driver, and an influx of drivers is expected from the Jacksonville Speedway regulars, since that track will not be open Saturday nights, the remainder of the season. From 30 to 35 sprint cars are expected here this weekend.

The late model stock car division also is growing rapidly with the recent merger of that division with the sportsman division.

A total of 27 late models competed last week and more are expected this week. Time trials will begin at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and the first race will be at 8 p.m.

Football practice: Trojan style

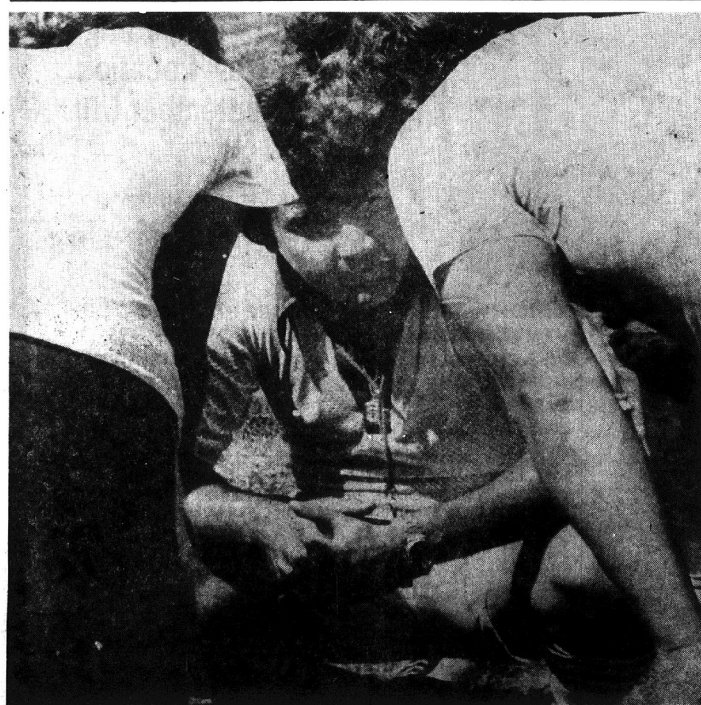

MADISON — It's in the air . . . football. And Madison High School's gridiron Trojans have been busily getting ready for the coming season.

Head Coach Nick Jakich and assistant Bill Campbell have been putting the Trojans through drills for conditioning in preparation for actual contact drills which will begin later this week.

Nick Jakich: He's got goals

By PETE HAYES

MADISON — When Nick Jakich graduated from Granite City High School in 1965, he wasn't too sure exactly what he wanted to do with his life. . . many high school graduates encounter that feeling. But he didn't have it for long. . . Uncle Sam decided what he was going to do with his life for him. Jakich spent the next three years in the Marine Corps. . . 15 months of that time was spent in the infantry in Vietnam.

But since his return from Vietnam, Jakich set out upon what HE had decided to do . . . coach. He finally realized his dream in 1974 when he graduated from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville with a degree in physical education and a teaching minor in social studies.

AFTER DOING his student teaching there, Jakich landed a full-time job at Madison High School. In 1975, he was a teacher and an assistant coach. The following year, he was handed the reins of a floundering Trojan football team after long-time coach Al Vonder Haar stepped down.

Jakich's first year wasn't much to remember. In fact, he doesn't like to talk about it.

After being notified just a matter of a few days before the start of practice that he had gotten the job, Jakich and his football Trojans trudged their way to an 0-9 record in 1976. But things couldn't be ALL that bad. After all, he did have just about everybody returning.

Can you imagine the thoughts of a coach who knows he had just about everybody returning from an 0-9 team? BUT LAST SEASON at the helm, Jakich and his Trojans surprised many observers. They got off to a great start, suffered through somewhat of a lapse in the middle of the season and then came on with a flurry at the close of the season to finish with a 5-4 record. The first above-500 football record in many a moon in Madison and also the only one in the Quad-Cities area last season.

The highlight, according to Jakich, was the Dupo game. . . the same game which had been the low-light of the '76 campaign. After being lambasted by Dupo 7-8 in 1976, Madison came back and turned the tables on the Tigers last season to the tune of 22-12.

"The thing that makes it even sweeter is that they had just about their same team back from the one that killed us the year before," said Jakich, now 31. "The game was at Dupo, which never helps, but our guys just stuck to their guns and didn't panic."

"I'll tell you something else," he added. "My guys remembered the last Dupo game and wanted to show the public that they weren't going to be embarrassed again."

THAT FEELING of pride is something which Jakich tried to instill in his players. "I told them during our 0-9 season that everybody had their day . . . and their's would come," he said. "We didn't go to the playoffs last year, but I think we more than made up for some of the things that went on in Madison in recent football past."

That past included, some 30 years ago, someone very important in Jakich's life . . . his father. "Dad was a big influence on my life," said Jakich. "But he died when I was in Vietnam."

"But I've got some uncles who really helped me out, wrote me letters to help keep me going and sort of took over for dad when I got back home."

Other members of his family who have helped him include his mother Kathleen of Granite City, and older sister, and a younger sister. It's the younger one who perhaps played the greatest role of all. She's mentally retarded.

"I grew up spending a lot of time playing with her and just being around her," said Jakich. "I loved her very much then and I still do."

"But she sort of opened my eyes to what life is about. I realize that I've got so much to be thankful for."

JAKICH has two sons from his first marriage who he tries to pass on that same feeling to: Nicky, 10, and Lance, 9.

"I try and spend as much time with them in the summer as I can," said Jakich. "They stay with their mother in the school year and with me in the summer."

"They're right at the age when they are starting to really show interest in a lot of things around them. It's fun watching them grow up."

Another thing about his two sons which pleases Jakich is that fact that they're both showing signs of being good athletes. "Lance played for Harry Briggs' team in the Heine Meine tournament over in St. Louis," said Jakich. "I'm not bragging, but he threw out about eight runners trying to steal second while he was in there catching. He's a born catcher."

THAT MAY be the case. Lance named Cardinal catcher Ted Simmons as his favorite athlete. But Nicky took a little more time in naming his favorite. But when he did, there wasn't any hesitation in his answer . . . his dad.

Jakich played two sports while attending Granite City High School . . . football and baseball. He was a fullback for coach Jim Morrison's football Warriors and played right field for Joe Fedora's baseball team.

Upon entering the Marines, he played football while in camp. And when he returned to the United States after the war, he entered Belleville Area College where he and Madison assistant coach Bill Campbell played on the Dutchmen's state champion baseball team.

DOES JAKICH look for any special qualities in prospective athletes? "Two things," he said, "attitude, dedication and desire."

AN EVENT occurred in November of last year which greatly changed Jakich's life. He got married.

His bride was 26-year-old Marsha Hofmeister, whose family operates a number of funeral homes in St. Louis.

Marsha graduated from Florida Southern University where she was a member of the tennis team. Her degree was in microbiology.

HAS JAKICH set any goals for himself or the team? "As far as the team is concerned, we'd like to finish with a winning season. I guess after that, it would have to be making the playoffs."

As far as his own goals are concerned, Jakich voiced two hopes. "I'd like to finish my master's degree in counseling (he's almost there) and I'd like to see my boys grow up with as many chances as they can get."

They will if Jakich has anything to say about it.

North's golfers to the links

By PETE HAYES
 Press-Record Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City North golf team will waste no time in getting its season under way. Russ Chappell's Steelers duffers will hit the links next Tuesday, Aug. 29 in a meet at Wood River.

Chappell and his squad have been practicing since last Wednesday, the first official day of practice allowed by the Illinois High School Association, Aug. 16.

But that doesn't mean many of North's golfers weren't playing on their own during the summer. According to Chappell, several members of his team went nearly everyday out at Arlington (where the team plays its home meets) shooting several holes of golf.

"We've got some boys on the team who are really trying hard to improve their game."

Among those players is junior Chris Andrews. "I've been playing just about every day," said Andrews. "I played 36 holes a few times, just to see if I could do it without dropping over."

Chappell said there are a couple of objectives he's set for the team. "We'd like to average four guys around 40," he said. "If we can do that, we can win some meets with a score of 180."

"If we do that, it will take care of our second objective... to have a winning team record."

Another member of Chappell's team who has attracted quite a bit of attention is senior Kathy Gilley, the only female member of the "boys" gold team. "Kathy's coming along very well," said Chappell. "I think she's got a good shot when it comes time for the girls' season."

Gone from last season's squad are Danny Harper, Mike Cella and George Baritz. But back to replace them are seniors Scott Robertson, Russ Chappell Jr., David Abbott and Gilley.

Juniors, besides Andrews, on the Steelers squad this season will be Rob Fyalka and Rocky Abbott.

Sophomores on the team are Paul Eades, Jerry Coyle, Bob Myer and Paul Miller.

Coming Monday: A look at Granite City South's golfers.

WILLIS FLOWERS EXPANDS. Mr. and Mrs. George Willis, owners and operators of Willis Flowers, 2965 Buxton Ave., are seen outside of their shop Tuesday morning. The exterior of the floral shop has been renovated, including the addition of a long, wood shingle roof which adds to the appearance of a mini shopping center. Still to be completed is a new, expanded gift area in the shop which will add approximately 200 square feet of floor space. Willis has been a florist all of his life and has operated his own shop for 18 years, moving to the present location 15 years ago.

Inflation

requesting is one and we again ask your help."

The reference concerning funds for seven overpass structures was to East St. Louis where a number of such structures are in the planning.

The mayor said that Cong. Price is expected in this area during the weekend of Sept. 2 and 3, and that he plans to submit the petitions to the congressman at that time.

"We have exhausted all sources for funds except the federal government," the mayor said. "And that is the way we will have to turn."

Mayor Schuler said the increased cost estimate for the overpass was due to the inflationary spiral in the cost of labor, materials and supplies.

Alderman Roy Poulos asked if such increases had been taken into account when planning was started.

Mayor Schuler replied, "We began planning this five years ago. We had no idea that inflation would become so severe, or that it would take us this long to get where we now are."

He said the M. W. engineers are about 85 percent complete in the design planning and that it is hoped a bid call for construction will be made early next year.

"We have come this far... We will build it," the mayor said.

He added that at least 5,000 signatures should be obtained on the petitions, "and I hope it will be more."

Anyone wishing to sign a petition may do so at the office of City Clerk Robert Stevens, it was announced. Aldermen plan to obtain signatures from residents of their respective wards.

Petitions that may be signed by area residents have been placed in the clerk's office, the treasurer's office, the mayor's office, assessor's office and the township office. Copies also may be picked up by volunteers who wish to circulate them among friends and neighbors.

Petitions also may be signed in Granite City banks, at the State Loan and Savings Association, Madison Federal Savings and Loan and the First Granite City Savings. Petitions also are in Green's Confectionery on Rock Road, at Cohen's Foods, Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and Granite City Steel Credit Union. Some forms are being circulated in Granite City Steel. They also are available at the Callis and Hartman, and the Lueders, Robertson and Konzen law offices.

The petitions are to be turned in no later than noon next Thursday.

Tax workshop for beginners

Quad-Cityans interested in learning how to prepare income tax returns may do so at a five-day workshop to be presented in October by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service. The workshop is designed for beginning tax preparers who plan to prepare returns for other people.

Each year, more taxpayers are seeking the help of competent persons to prepare and file their federal and state income tax returns, the Extension Service believes. It has designed this workshop to help fill the need for trained preparers.

The workshop will deal with preparation of federal nonfarm small business and farm and state returns.

Ron Cornwell, Madison County extension adviser, emphasizes that the workshop is planned for persons who have had little or no experience and who wish to become more competent in preparing income tax returns for others.

Among the subjects to be covered are: discussion and completion of Form 1040 and 1040A; taxable and non-taxable income; deductible and non-deductible expenses; itemized deductions; depreciation; capital gains and losses; tax basis calculation; and preparation of the business Schedule C and farm Schedule F.

The workshop will be presented via the Cooperative Extension Service TeleNet System. This is a telephone network with two-way communication between several stations throughout the state.

Students at each of the stations will hear and talk with the workshop instructors on the telephone network.

Each of the TeleNet stations will have a leader who will show and explain the visuals and personally help students with their questions and special problems.

Persons attending the workshop will receive a specially prepared workbook containing copies of tax forms, problems, examples and information.

Teachers for this year's workshop will be: Donald L. Doerr, area adviser, farm management; C. Allen Bock, professor, agricultural law; and Boyd A. Henry, area adviser, farm business and farm management.

Madison Countyans are being invited to enroll for the workshop to be held Oct. 18, 20, 22, 25 and 27 at the Farm Bureau Auditorium, 407 E. Lincoln, Belleville. Classes start at 9 a.m. and finish at 4:30 p.m. each day. A $35 enrollment fee covers the cost of materials and workbooks.

Because attendance will be limited, Cornwell advises interested persons to contact him as soon as possible for enrollment information at 900 Hillsboro - Box 427, Edwardsville, or 656-7200 or 656-8400. Deadline for enrolling is Sept. 29.

Court hearing postponed in Hileman pension case

A court hearing on the status of the pension of former Granite City Assistant Fire Chief Charles Hileman was postponed Tuesday at the request of the Firemen's Pension Fund Board and will be held at 9:30 a.m. Monday, Sept. 11, before Associate Judge George May.

In return for the continuance, the pension board has agreed not to hold a meeting, originally scheduled for today, to discuss halting Hileman's pension benefits.

Hileman has received $1,020 per month since resigning as assistant fire chief Sept. 8, 1977, after being indicted by a Madison County grand jury on four felony counts of theft, one of which later was dismissed.

The pension board met immediately after his resignation and granted him a pension amounting to 60 percent of his salary July 25, however, he was informed by letter by the pension board that it was going to meet again Aug. 11 to study whether his pension should be discontinued on the grounds of the felony conviction.

Hileman and his attorney, William S. Beatty, appeared at that meeting and the pension board decided to act upon the issue at a meeting today, Aug. 24.

Hileman filed suit in Madison County Circuit Court seeking an injunction to prevent the pension board from holding its Aug. 24 meeting, or otherwise halting Hileman's pension without legal grounds.

That case was assigned to Judge Moran, who set the Tuesday, Aug. 22 date for a hearing. Tuesday, Hileman's attorney said he had no objections to the pension board's request for a continuance.

George Smolich, chairman of the pension board, said today's meeting has been cancelled and will not be held until Moran issues his opinion after the Sept. 11 hearing.

In his injunction request,

Funeral services were scheduled at 2 p.m. today in a funeral home at Eldon. Burial was to be in the Eldon City Cemetery.

SPECTACULAR BRIDGE CRASH Tuesday afternoon in which an auto landed on its top. With fuel leaking out of the vehicle, an effort was made to turn it upright (lower scene) but this was abandoned as too hazardous. The car later was towed off the McKinley Bridge into St. Louis, on its roof. Motorists inch past (top picture) for a time, but later it was necessary to block off traffic on the Venice-St. Louis Mississippi River span until the wreckage could be removed. Venice and Madison police went to the scene, along with St. Louis police and firemen.

MARRIED Mr. and Mrs. William P. Toney, whose wedding was solemnized at the Memorial Methodist Church in Farmington, Mo. The bride is the former Miss Linnie M. Stalecker, daughter of Mrs. Delores Stalecker, 7746 Sunset Drive.

Miss Donna Clinard and Elmer Humphrey are wed

Miss Donna Faye Clinard became the bride of Elmer "Bud" Humphrey in a 6:30 evening ceremony on Aug. 5 at the Word of Life Tabernacle. The Rev. Henry Crippen, pastor, officiated at the double ring service.

The former Miss Clinard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Clinard, 3017 Buxton Ave. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Little, reside on Ferguson Avenue.

Cindy Mahoney, soloist, sang "A Love That Lasts a Lifetime," "Can Two Walk Together," "God Has Given You to Me" and "Protect Them as They Go Their Way."

Jean Keeling, organist, accompanied the vocalist and played the Lord's Prayer. She also sang a duet with Miss Mahoney, "The Song of Ruth."

Tapered candles in candelabra and arrangements of gerberas and white carnations, intermingled with blue baby's breath, graced the altar.

The candlelighters were Sherri and Kristy Clinard, sisters of the bride, who also were in charge of the guest book.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She chose an A-line gown of organza and Chantilly lace. The organza bodice with appliques of Chantilly and tiny ruffle buttons was made with a high neckline. The sleeves of Chantilly were long and light to the wrist and the full skirt, ending in double lace flounces, swished into a chapel train.

Her Juliet cap of Chantilly and seed pearls secured a finger-tip veil of organza, bordered in wide Chantilly, and she held a cascade of white carnations, blue baby's breath and stephanotis with pearl centers, arranged with variegated foliage, and enhanced with Chantilly lace streamers and delicate blue flowers.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Vicki Sebastian, the bride's sister, and the maids were Miss Wanda Wuehler and Miss Tammy Pence.

Their gowns were fashioned alike of powder blue georgette and white Chantilly lace in A-line style. The high necklines were edged in lace and a narrow lace ruffle detailed the cuffs of the bishop sleeves. The regal waists had set-in belts with long sashes, and ruffled flounces, trimmed with lace, encircled the hemlines.

Their flowers were blue and white carnations with white baby's breath, trailing long blue and white streamers.

The groom selected as his best man, Rob Gay, who sang his own composition, entitled "Unity," during the lighting of the Trinity candles. The song was written in honor of the bride and groom.

Ron Stengelmeier and John Pithers were the groomsmen, and the ushers were headed by Paul Clinard, the bride's brother, and her brother-in-law, Harold Sebastian.

The candlelighters were dressed in pale blue embroidered frocks made with square necklines, trimmed in lace, and gathered skirts.

Mother of the bride, Mrs. Clinard, chose a long gown of soft knit, created along princess lines, with full-length sleeves.

The groom's mother appeared in a gown of chiffon with a multi-colored eyelid bodice in shades of pink and brown and a long skirt in rose.

Thirty guests attended the rehearsal dinner party hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Ponderosa Steak House.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception for relatives and friends was held at the St. John United Church of Christ Fellowship Hall.

The couple spent an 11-day wedding trip at Niagara Falls, N. Y., and in Pennsylvania.

The former Miss Clinard is a graduate of Olin School of Nursing in Alton. She is employed at St. Mary's Hospital in Centralia, Ill.

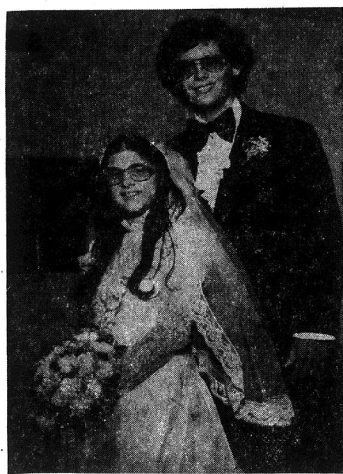

Her husband, a graduate of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and a member of Kappa Delta Phi, is in charge of special education for the Centralia school system.

Miss Linnie Stalecker marries in Farmington

Memorial Methodist Church in Farmington, Mo., was the scene of the wedding Aug. 5 of Miss Linnie M. Stalecker, daughter of Mrs. Delores Stalecker, 7746 Sunset Drive, and William P. Toney of Piedmont, Mo.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Toney, live in Boulder City, Nev.

Dr. G. Maxwell Teetor performed the double ring ceremony at 5:30 in the evening in a candlelight setting.

Yellow and white daisies, intermingled with green foliage, decorated the sanctuary.

The altar was illuminated with burning tapers in candelabra and the aisle was carpeted in white.

A selection of wedding music was performed by Kathy Davis of Granite City, soloist.

Susan Ehlers was the maid of honor, with Donna Miller, Marlene Rich, Marianna Yevin and Vicki Skrobol, the bridesmaids.

The flower girl, Monica Toney and the ringbearer, Vanessa Toney, are both cousins of the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother.

She chose a qiana knit gown with silk Venice lace, designed from the Grecian period. The high fitted neckline of lace was accented with a cameo medallion, embellished with seed pearls, at the throat of the yoke.

The Empire bodice was appliqued with lace motifs and lace formed the brief cap sleeves. A narrow banding of Venice lace encircled the waist and the full skirt fell into soft folds, detailed at the hemline with matching lace. A voluminous train flowed gracefully from the back of the gown.

Her camelot headpiece of Venice lace with jeweled trim was attached to a melody length veil of imported French bridal illusion, banded in narrow lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow garnet roses, stephanotis, greenery and baby's breath.

The attendants wore identical gowns in pale yellow, accented with matching capes. Their flowers were yellow roses mixed with fresh greenery.

The flower girl and ringbearer were dressed in long yellow gowns to match the attendants' dresses and the candlelighters, Jeana and Donna Stalecker, sisters of the bride, wore green silk frocks with capes of white lace and yellow flowers.

A rehearsal dinner party was given at Rosener's Restaurant the evening before the wedding. Relatives and friends greeted the newweds at a reception at the Shrine Club in Farmington, Mo.

After a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will make their home in Lexington, Ky.

A graduate of Granite City High School South, the former Miss Stalecker received a BS degree from St. Louis University. She also is a registered nurse, having received a degree from Barnes Hospital School of Nursing.

Her husband graduated from Boulder City High School, attended Murray State University and now is a student at the University of Kentucky.

Many guests attending the ceremony traveled to Farmington from Florida, Illinois, Nevada and other sections of Missouri.

A candlelight evening ceremony at 7 o'clock Aug. 23 in Niedringhaus United Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage of Amy Kathleen Bono and Michael John Toohill.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin J. Bono, 2503 Benton St.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Toohill, reside in St. Charles, Ill.

The Rev. William Mathias and Father James Hill officiated at the double ring ceremony.

White and blue flowers decorated the altar, flanked with tiered candelabra.

Small bouquets of white flowers, tied with white satin ribbons, adorned the standard candelabra that held burning white tapers to illuminate the carpeted aisle.

Following the service, Lawrence Berry performed at the piano, "Nocturne" and "Mañana" by Chopin, "Waltz in A-Flat" by Brahms, "Impromptu," Opus 142 by Schubert and Debussy's "Clair de Lune."

Berry also played at the organ, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach and The Wedding March.

Soloist Paul Mabrey sang, "The Call," "Ave Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Sisters of the groom, Margaret, Eileen, Kathleen and Karen Toohill of St. Charles, Ill., served as acolytes for the candlelight service.

Susan Robinson, the bride's cousin, presided over the guest book at the church.

The former Miss Bono selected a gown of white silk organza and re-embroidered alencon lace, accented with seed pearls. The fitted lace bodice was designed with a scoop neckline and cap sleeves.

The full train, deeply bordered in alencon lace, was gathered at the natural waistline and fell softly to chapel length. She wore a chapel length mantilla veil of imported illusion, edged with matching lace.

Her bouquet was a full cascade of white roses, stephanotis and gardenias with ivy, arranged on a white ribbon.

Miss Maureen Toohill of St. Charles, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. Mrs. Richard (Pat) McElshagen of Omaha, Neb., and Miss Michelle McNabb of Peoria were the bridesmaids.

They wore matching full length dresses in Wedgewood blue glans, with scooped necklines and brief cap sleeves. The blouses bodices were detailed with string ties at the neckline and waist.

Each attendant carried a cascade of white roses with blue elegance carnations and wore matching flowers with blue ribbon streamers in her hair.

Stephen Toohill of St. Charles served as best man for his brother.

The groomsmen were Scott Lenz of Yorktown Heights, N.Y., and Charles Booth of Kalamazoo, N.Y.

The ushers consisted of Jeffery Robinson, a cousin of the bride, and Mark Farrell of Mount Kisco, N.Y.

The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner party at Charlie's Restaurant.

Guests greeted the bride and groom at a reception at the Cheshire Inn, Clayton, Mo., following the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to St. Thomas in the U.S. Virgin Islands, the couple will be at home in East Lansing, Mich.

The groom will be a graduate student this year at Michigan State University in Lansing. He is a 1977 graduate of Bradley University, majoring in biology, and a member of Tau Kappa Iota Fraternity and Sigma Xi Research Society.

Mrs. Toohill is a 1974 graduate of Granite City High School South and a 1978 graduate of Bradley University at Peoria, where she also majored in biology.

THE GEORGE A. STINSON motor vessel, first 1,000-foot-long super ore carrier in National Steel Corporation's Great Lakes fleet. It was christened Monday at the Detroit riverfront. The big boat is named after the chairman and chief executive officer of the steel firm. Chairman Stinson and President Howard M. Love spoke at the ceremony.

Stinson super ore carrier is added to National Steel fleet

The M-V (Motor Vessel) George A. Stinson, the first 1,000-foot super ore carrier in National Steel Corporation's Great Lakes fleet, was christened in Detroit Monday by Mrs. George A. Stinson in honor of her husband, who is chairman of National Steel, parent company of Granite City Steel.

She broke the traditional bottle of champagne against the bow of the large, self-unloading vessel as several hundred invited guests looked on to join in her wish of "Godspeed and good luck" in ceremonies at the downtown Detroit riverfront. In remarks at the ceremony, Chairman Stinson commented that "the vessel signifies an important commitment by National Steel to modernize and remain competitive in the world business community."

"At a time when we have seen foreign ships use these same waters to unload steel in the American market at illegal prices, this highly sophisticated vessel is another example of the plain fact that our equipment is as modern and competitive as in any other steel operation overseas."

"Although I am proud to have this vessel bear my name, I would like to dedicate it to all the people in the Detroit area; to the many thousands of past, present and future employees of the Great Lakes Steel Division who convert iron ore and coal into steel."

"To our many customers in the Detroit area who make cars and other products people need... to the many city officials in Detroit and also in Ecorse and River Rouge, where our Great Lakes Steel operations are located..."

"To our many suppliers..."

and to our many friends throughout this area who have encouraged us over the years." Howard M. Love, National's president and former Granite City Steel president, said in his remarks opening the ceremony that "this christening is especially significant, since it conveniently comes at a time when National Steel is experiencing a 'new birth' in its business life."

"This day we are witnessing completion of the last major capital expenditure of those first 50 years of our corporate life."

"In the past five years alone, it is interesting to note that National Steel has invested more than one billion dollars in its plants and equipment."

"This program has enabled us to modernize our plants and to increase our steelmaking capacity by more than two million tons per year."

Love added that "one of our most important concerns at National Steel is improving our efficiency and lowering our costs. It gives me a solidly good feeling to know that this vessel will help us do both."

Robert D. McBride, immediate past president of Granite City Steel, is president of the Great Lakes Steel Division.

The new ore carrier will transport about half of the 5.8-million tons of iron ore pellets being produced yearly at the newly-expanded National Steel Pellet Plant at Keewauwin, Minn., destined primarily for National's Great Lakes Steel and Weirton (W. Va.) Steel divisions.

The M-V Stinson has capacity to transport 50,000 gross tons of iron ore pellets, at maximum summer draft, or 32,000 net tons of coal, at a full-load speed of 15.8 mph. It is equipped with a 260-foot-long unloading boom, operable on either side of the 105-foot beam of the boat. It is capable of unloading its cargo at the rate of 10,000 gross tons of pellets or 6,000 net tons of coal per hour. It is considered one of the most efficient, self-unloading type vessels of its kind, utilizing two belts under the cargo hold hopper bottom. Propulsion, navigation, environmental and safety equipment also are all of the latest design.

A dual radar system, one forward and one aft, aids in night and poor visibility navigation. Her covered motorized lifeboat is the first on the Great Lakes.

The M-V Stinson will be operated by The Hanna Mining Company, of Cleveland, manager of National Steel Corporation's Great Lakes vessels.

Psalm 137: "... Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits."

If every one of us were despondent, discouraged, and dismayed with your life; if ever you despair of existing for one more day; try reading the book of Psalms as a prescription for healing. Make Psalms reading a part of your daily worship of God.

David was a person whose life reflected many of the same problems we face in our generation. He had to maintain composure to protect his nation, he had marital problems that scarred his life, he raised rebellious children who repeatedly broke his heart and caused him much anguish. However, David realized many blessings in serving God. We would do well to daily remind ourselves of this fact.

Let us say as David, "O my soul, forget not!" Today.

60 days in jail on theft charge

Jimmie Dale Poe, 17, of 1931 Benton St., has been sentenced by Circuit Judge Joseph J. Barr to serve two years of probation and 60 days in the Madison County Jail after pleading guilty to theft.

Poe allegedly took three shotguns, a rifle, a bow and arrow, a stereo receiver and a turntable from the home of Leonard Fowler, 4265 Lake Drive, Pontoon Beach, Feb. 3, which were recovered in the apartment Poe listed as his address at the time of sentencing.

A burglary charge against Poe in connection with that case was dismissed.

Limited resources — including time, money — help in teaching economics

A kindergarten teacher counts the last block in the stack for a mathematics lesson with her class.

For the next 15 minutes, she tells them, they may either play with the blocks or draw a picture. Some of the youngsters begin stacking the cubes on the floor while their classmates move with their papers to the crayon container.

Without using the formal situation, the teacher has just taught a second lesson — the concept of economic scarcity. The children were given a limited resource (15 minutes) and they had to decide how to use it.

The idea and the lesson are the work of the Office of Economic Education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Under an Illinois Council of Economic Education grant — recently renewed a fifth year for $10,000 — teachers at the graduate level come back to SIUE for a credit course or a conference in basic economic concepts and learn how to get the ideas back into their classrooms.

Economics is the one thing people use most and know least about, according to Joanne Dempsey, assistant director of OEE. "We all have to buy cars or balance budgets," she said, "but we have very little formal knowledge of the processes involved."

To help people make informed decisions and to increase the economic literacy, the center concentrates on classroom teachers who can reach and teach as many as 100

At the high school level, the lessons may concentrate on money, a more familiar limited resource.

Faced with a small allowance or part-time salary, the student soon learns that the "opportunity" to see a movie tomorrow may "cost" him an afternoon of swimming today.

By understanding the opportunity-cost concept, he decides to "pick one thing and give up something else." He makes the choice from an economically literate viewpoint.

The program, affiliated with the national Joint Council on Economic Education, also provides a resource center and consulting services for area schools, and sponsors related research projects.

DRUMMER BARRETT DEEMS, who has performed with all the top big bands in the United States and Europe, attracted more than 200 musicians and drum aficionados to a clinic, sponsored by John Fornaszewski Drum Studio, at St. John United Church Hall. From left to right are Deems, John Fornaszewski, Joe Geraghty, a St. Louis drum teacher, Stanley Fornaszewski, John's son and a drummer, and William F. Ludwig Jr., president of Ludwig Industries.

Health care cost curb progress will be topic

State and national efforts to hold down health care costs will be the principal topic of discussion at a meeting of the General Assembly of the Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency (HSA), Wednesday, Aug. 30, at 7 p.m. in the Meridian Ballroom of the University Center of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The meeting is free and open to the public, Virginia Lawson of the HSA said.

The General Assembly members will also examine current activities and future plans of HSA local impact committees.

County-level local impact committees of the General Assembly were formed last year to promote increased citizen involvement in health planning and health resource development.

The Assembly is the general membership body of the HSA, which is the official health planning and resource development agency for the Missouri counties of Jefferson, Franklin, St. Charles and St. Louis, St. Louis City and the Illinois counties of Madison, Monroe, Franklin and St. Clair.

Any resident of these counties over 18 years of age is eligible to join the General Assembly, which meets in plenary session on a quarterly basis.

At the October meeting, General Assembly members will elect persons to the 60-member volunteer board of directors of the agency.

Music, realty courses by Illinois University

The University of Illinois will be offering two credit courses in this area during the fall semester.

Rural Real Estate Appraisal will be offered at Belleville Township High School-West on Tuesday nights beginning at 6:30 on Aug. 29 in Room C-5. This course deals with valuation methods and value bases of rural real estate.

Included among other topics are legal aspects of property rights, appraisal theory and procedures, condemnation appraisal, characteristics of the rural land market, and soil identification and productivity.

A workshop in music education will begin in Room 401 Assumption High School (East St. Louis) at 7 p.m. on Aug. 29.

This credit course is designed to assist classroom teachers in developing effective and appropriate music activities for children who cannot benefit from common music activities.

The faculty will include experts in special education and music therapy from a number of institutions.

The University of Illinois will also present a non-credit course to assist graduate engineers in reviewing engineering principles. The course has proven particularly helpful as partial preparation for the "professional engineer" and "engineer-in-training" examinations.

The professional engineer course will begin on Tuesday, Sept. 5, at 6:30 p.m. in Room C-4 at Belleville Township High School-West.

The University of Illinois regional office telephone number is 235-3990.

Probation in forgery case

Bernard C. Hogan, 221 Kerr St., Venice, has been sentenced to serve two years of probation and pay a $250 fine after pleading guilty to forgery.

Hogan allegedly attempted to cash a stolen $1,006 state check at First Granite City National Bank March 28, which had been taken from the office of Dr. A. M. Datin, 2044 Madison Ave., where Hogan was employed as a night clean-up man, according to police.

Burning truck is driven to firemen

The pickup truck of Ray Koester, 2840 Iowa St., was extinguished by the Long Lake Fire Department Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

The truck caught fire while Koester was driving east on Pontoon Road. Koester, near the department building, pulled in the parking lot of the building and summoned firemen who put out the fire.

Damage was estimated at $1,000. No one was injured.

Venice school tax loan

Venice School Board members authorized the sale of $75,000 in anticipation warrants in the building fund during a meeting last week in which officials also indicated that second-year tax warrants may have to be sold soon to provide operating funds in the educational account.

The $75,000 in building fund warrants is the maximum the district can sell under the tax extension for building fund purposes.

Tax warrants sold now are chargeable against 1978 taxes collected in 1979. Second-year warrants would extend against 1978 and 1979 taxes collected next year and in 1980.

Sale of the tax warrants last week followed adoption of a new 1978-79 budget of $2,305,679 against anticipated revenue of $1,681,396, leaving a projected deficit of $624,283.

No word has yet been received about the Title VII funds, Robert N. Vickers, Venice superintendent of schools said, adding information whether or not Venice will receive the funds will not be available until Oct. 1.

Mrs. Aileen Cross, Venice Title VII director, returned to Venice during the weekend from Washington, D.C., and reported a decision concerning the Venice funds cannot be reached until it is determined if the Chicago school system is eligible to receive the total amount budgeted to that district.

The Venice board members have agreed to allow teaching personnel who are qualified and have sufficient seniority to "bump" teachers at Venice-Lincoln Technical Center who have less seniority.

The Venice administrator has been in touch with teachers asking faculty members to wait a 30-day period, but so far has not received any encouraging answers, he said.

K. Duane Rankin, Venice-Lincoln administrator, said enrollment at the adult vocational center is expected to rise and many of those employed under the Title VII program probably could be absorbed with the increase in the students.

Most of those contacted by Vickers report not being able to wait one month to find out if they still can be employed in the Venice District.

The resignations of Delores Sifton, a school matron, and Gerald Mann, a Venice-Lincoln bus driver, were accepted at the meeting.

TIRES, FUEL STOLEN

Five tires and wheels valued at $500 and an undetermined amount of gasoline and diesel fuel were stolen during a burglary at Paul Seebold Concrete Co., 22nd Street and the railroad tracks, it was discovered Monday. A door to the storage shed was opened and three tires were taken from the shed. Two others were stolen from a tractor trailer and gasoline and fuel were taken from several trucks and pieces of equipment.

Knights will aid retarded

Illinois Knights of Columbus will launch their ninth annual Tootsie Roll campaign in behalf of the mentally retarded on the weekend of Nov. 3-4 throughout the state.

Robert J. Defenbaugh of Waukegan and Gus Sundermeier of Oak Lawn, co-chairing the annual fund-raising effort, have set their sights on a goal of $750,000, about 10 percent greater than the record $685,000 grossed in last year's drive.

Proceeds collected during the two-day drive are donated by the Knights to sheltered workshops, special schools, associations and organizations for the retarded in the community where it was solicited.

The campaign for the mentally retarded was initiated in 1970, gross receipts from the program have topped $4 million.

Under the terms of the K. of C. program, 10 percent of the gross collected each year is placed in a state fund which is used to provide support for a major mentally retarded project.

Handling of the funds is governed by guidelines set up in compliance with the Internal Revenue Service and the knights' national headquarters in New Haven.

In recent years, the Knights have been sponsoring a lead-mobility program by technicians from the Illinois Association for Retarded Citizens.

The mobile laboratory travels around the state testing young children free of charge for lead. They may have ingested into their systems.

Hundreds of youngsters who might otherwise have suffered organic damage or irreversible brain damage from the effects of lead poisoning were detected by the testing lab on wheels and treated by physicians and hospitals.

The candy product used in "selling" the programs, plus minimal promotional costs of the participating councils, are the only expenses deducted.

All of the contributions from candy sales are placed in a charitable trust and donated to community organizations aiding the retarded.

Both Governor James Thompson and Mayor Michael A. Blandin of Chicago have signed proclamations setting aside Nov. 3-4 as "Knights of Columbus Days for the Retarded."

Knights and volunteer workers from fraternal groups, schools and organizations wear K. of C. Help Retarded Children's yellow jackets and flash a canister shaped like a mammoth Tootsie Roll, the product distributed with each donation.

Last year, 244 of the 277 Knights of Columbus councils or lodges in Illinois took part in the weekend drive. About 26 other states are holding annual mentally retarded campaigns during the year modeled after the Illinois programs.

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

Wants to 'have his cake and eat it, too'

Q. My husband and I have been married 13 years. Of these 13 years, he's been cheating on me for 12. It's always a different girl.

I'm not a Miss America, but I'm good looking and have a nice shape. I'm neat and the house is always clean.

I bake everything; I'm a very good cook (which he said himself). He also gets all the loving he wants from me.

He wants a good wife and a good mother for our two children but wants everything else, too.

A. There are a few men who are just plain women-chasers. Apparently you are unlucky enough to have one of this breed.

We have known such persons. Perhaps if you, yourself, developed spiritual power and had friends work with you spiritually, your husband could be reached and changed. This method often works most effectively.

We are sending you our booklet, TRY PRAYER POWER, in the hope it will help you as it has helped others.

Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us in care of Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Heart won't hear
Q. Will you please give me some advice on love? I'm 18 years old and have a problem.

You see, it's this dude that I remember from way back when he played with my brother.

Well, something about him attracted me to him, and I just fell in love with him.

My sisters all encouraged me to call him, and so I did. But he acts as though he doesn't know who I am and he never returns any of my phone calls.

I've got a feeling he was had, and I have tried to hate him. But my heart won't hear of it.

Maybe you can suggest a way to get over him.

A. Probably the young man thinks of you as a kid. And you are showing undesirable traits in hounding him.

As a female, you are endowed by nature with the powers of femininity. But these are most effective when subtly used.

And the most subtle use of all is to be absolutely normal, happy and attractive.

At 18, you are growing up and coming to the point where this fellow may notice you and like

Sentenced to 4 years

Ronald A. Killian, 24, of 2812 Birch Ave., has been sentenced in Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville to serve four years in prison after pleading guilty to burglary. Sentence was pronounced by Circuit Judge Harold R. Clark.

Killian allegedly was among three young men who were arrested inside the Granite City Dental Lab, 1330a Nineteenth St., early March 6, while police were responding to a burglar alarm.

He was the last of the three to be sentenced in that case. James Legate, 22, of 1600 Third St., Madison was sentenced to serve three years in prison and Steve D. Campbell, 24, of 116 Reynolds St., Madison, was sentenced to two years of probation and 60 days in the Madison County Jail.

LIVING WITH FEAR; By Isaac M. Marks, M.D.; McGraw-Hill; 368 Pages; $10.

Spinning about on their little planet, people are plagued with fears of all kinds. Some fear heights. Others fear crowds, airplanes, subways, storms, the dark of night, physical intimacy, hospitals, animals, insects, germs, electricity, certain foods. The list is almost endless. In this fascinating book, Marks gives examples of some phobias that stretch credulity, such as the woman who had such a fear of injury from glass splinters that she spent hours each day searching her home for splinters that didn't exist. Marks also describes how this woman and others were rescued from their fears by medical treatment.

BRIGHTLY-COLORED DECALS have been placed on all 966 Bi-State Development Agency buses to kick off the agency's latest campaign for elderly and handicapped bus riders. The new sign, to which Bi-State Executive Director Barry M. Locke is pointing, reads: "These seats are reserved for elderly and handicapped passengers. Your cooperation is appreciated." Locke says that "although the request isn't mandatory, the signs are an effective reminder to bus patrons who can more easily reach a seat farther back in the bus." Pictured with Locke is Bi-State Elderly and Handicapped Specialist Deborah Phillips.

Proposed law viewed as threat to a reliable, affordable phone system

The "happy marriage" of the telephone with the American public has provided the nation with a century of "reliable and affordable communications."

A Bell System executive told the U.S. House Communications Subcommittee at a hearing in Chicago Tuesday. Hearings were conducted by Illinois Congressman Martin A. Russo (D-South Holland) and Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin (D-Calif.).

R. Douglas Watson, central area vice-president and general manager of American Telephone and Telegraph's Long Lines Department, testified that the proposed Communications Act of 1978, as now written, would "fragment responsibility for the telephone network and possibly force divestiture of Western Electric from the Bell System."

Watson said splitting off Western Electric would be a "crippling blow" to a nation-wide network "which is serving the best interests of the public." "It is not the structure of the Bell System which dictates the network, rather, it is the network and its needs that dictate the Bell System structure," he said.

Watson cited the Bell System's development and installation of the world's largest-capacity switching machine for long distance calls, which was first introduced in Chicago in 1976. Similarly modern equipment is in use in Granite City.

Because of Western Electric's involvement, "it took less time to do the job and it reduced the cost of introducing a major new technology into the network," he said.

The close teamwork between Long Lines and AT&T Laboratories and Western Electric culminated in the development of the Number 4 ESS switcher," Watson said.

This electronic toll switcher is capable of handling 500,000 calls per hour (150 every second), more than four times the carrying capacity of its electromechanical predecessor. "Despite this capacity, it requires only one-fifth the space, half the energy and one-third the maintenance cost of the older electromechanical systems with comparable capacity," he said.

Watson added that the new equipment works with switching equipment installed in Chicago in 1940 as well as with an electronic system scheduled for installation in Illinois in 1982.

"This kind of compatibility means a great deal to our customers. It enables us to meet their increasing needs for additional service, and at a reasonable price. "We don't have to tear down the network and start all over with each new generation of technology."

Because Western Electric is part of the team, Watson said, equipment could be installed and tested while improvements were still being designed.

And Long Lines people received training at the Western Electric assembly plant in Lisle (Ill.) before equipment was shipped or formal training courses could be prepared, it was related.

"All this telescoping of effort and time results in major cost savings which flowed through to Long Lines and Illinois Bell Telephone Co. and ultimately to our customers," Watson said.

He cited five reasons why he feels the present Bell System structure works best for the public:

—It assures the compatibility, reliability and quality of the equipment needed for the telephone network.

—It assures that technical innovation will keep pace with customer demands. "We cannot solve tomorrow's needs with yesterday's services," which would happen if Western Electric were left, he asserted.

—There are no favored classes of customers. The Bell System structure "makes it possible for people in cities, suburbs, small towns and rural areas — people everywhere — to have reliable communications services."

—Telephone companies can more quickly and efficiently restore service when disasters strike because of the teamwork of all Bell units.

—Substantial cost advantages which are passed on to the customer would be lost if Western Electric were split off. It would reduce readily available equipment and spare parts, quick delivery and installation of equipment — when necessary — and joint engineering efforts among Bell units, he said at the hearing.

This "would hurt the American consumer in his pocketbook — his most sensitive area," Watson said.

"It will be the public that will lose if the Bell System is struck by the crippling blow of divestiture of Western Electric — the dismemberment of a system that works."

Career upgrading seminar for adults

A one-day workshop for adults who would like to enroll in a college class, but are afraid they can't keep up with the younger students, is planned. The workshop will be held Sept. 11 from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. in the General Studies Office located in Room 1310 SIUE's John S. Rendleman Building, and is cosponsored by General Studies and the Gerontology Program at SIUE. There is no charge for participation and the public is being invited to attend.

Participants may "brown-bag" their lunches or utilize the university cafeteria or dining room facilities. Parking during break time is free in all lots unless otherwise posted.

University ambassadors will be on hand to guide visitors wherever the situation calls for it.

Recognizing the need for flexibility in today's changing world is important," Louise Saunders, counselor, Tuesday. People who are best able to cope with mid-life crises are those who are willing to enter new experiences and can adapt to change, she said.

The workshop is designed to help men approaching their years of retirement — and those facing employment reassignment because of technological obsolescence — to prepare for careers in other fields.

Mrs. Saunders said the workshop should also be of great interest to women whose child-raising years are behind them and who would like to continue their education — and younger women who would like to train for a career to supplement the family income.

The workshop is aimed primarily at those people who are more interested in new career direction or upgrading their present professional positions rather than those interested in non-career courses for their own enrichment.

"Going back to college or diving into the campus experience for the first time can be frightening for the adult learner," Mrs. Saunders said. "Purpose of the workshop is to ease the fear by assisting the participants in deciding what they want to learn, when they want to enroll in classes, and how to go about it."

"During the morning session, participants will discuss ways to enter college without a high school diploma and ways to gain college credit from life's experiences."

"Participants will also receive career and personal interest testing as well as group and individual counseling. "On hand to bolster the sagging confidence of some people may have in themselves will be part-time and full-time SIUE students who, at some time in their lives, have faced the same decisions."

"The afternoon session will be devoted to two-way discussions with various university resource people who will provide information about programs and student services available on campus."

Resource people who will be on hand from university units offering student services include representatives from Student Work and Financial Assistance, Learning Center (providing assistance in development and improvement of study and reading skills), University Placement Ser-

New detective story—in the 1930s style

THE AFFAIR OF THE BLOOD-STAINED EGG COSY

By Janet Anderson (AVON)

Reviewed by Betty Richardson SIUE Department of English "The Affair of the Blood-Stained Egg Cosy," a paperback re-issue of a 1975 publication, is both poignant and hilarious.

It was written for those of us who look back sadly to the days when murder—in fiction—was not always and altogether delicate. We prefer our bodies to be found in libraries; we weary of alleys. We would rather view the clashing of human motivations than of human fists or automobiles.

We like our detectives to detect, infer, deduct—to do all kinds of things we know they never could find time to do in this real world.

Anderson has written a gentle, satiric evocation of those 1930s detective stories in which all these wishes were fulfilled.

He has a gift for suggesting the style and characters of all the star detective writers of those early days—vintage Ellery Queen, S.S. Van Dine, E. Philip Oppenheim, early John Dickson Carr.

There is even a detective drawn from Wilkie Collins, a splendid P. G. Wodehouse drawing-room bore, and a wonderfully aggressive butler. And what is the novel about? It is about glamorous spies, secret treaties, dauntless, heretofore concealed identities, and delicately arranged cadavers.

Crowds of characters, none up to any good, collide in the darkened corridors and secret passages of a stately home of England. It is about odd weapons, mysterious millionaires, beautiful adventuresses. Piled one upon the other, they create a splendid comedy.

But the author knows precisely what he is about. At the end, as at the beginning, we are reminded that this is the decade in which the Nazis came to power.

These spies, these heroines—they will not survive the decade to come. And neither will this type of detective novel, which is really quite a shame.

School in Highland. Two of Stack's younger brothers are in the band. Republican for various offices in the Nov. 7 election visited the tents throughout the weekend talking with people and informing the public of their views on various issues.

REPUBLCAN CANDIDATES for offices in the Nov. 7 general election talk over campaign strategies Friday evening at one of two tents in the Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center sponsored by the Madison County Republican Men's Club. A volunteer band entertained those visiting the area and the Gerry Cohn for Area schools adopt policy to allot free milk, meals

Public and parochial schools in the Quad-City area have announced a policy for free milk and free meals, or reduced price meals for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast and Special Milk programs.

Local school officials said they have adopted family size and income criteria for determining eligibility during the 1978-79 school year.

That criteria has been adopted by Granite City School District 9, Madison School District 12, Venice School District 3, and St. Elizabeth, St. Mary-St. Mark, St. Margaret Mary, Sacred Heart, and St. Joseph parochial schools.

Family size, family income for free meals and free milk and family income for reduced price meals, in that order:

- One in family, $4,190 and $6,330.
- Two, $5,500 and $8,580.
- Three, $6,810 and $10,630.
- Four, $8,110 and $12,680.
- Five, $9,410 and $14,730.
- Six, $10,710 and $16,780.
- Seven, $12,010 and $18,830.
- Eight, $13,310 and $20,880.
- Nine, $14,610 and $22,930.
- Ten, $15,910 and $24,980.
- Eleven, $17,210 and $27,030.
- Twelve, $18,510 and $29,080.

Each additional family member, $970 and $1,520.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free milk and free meals or reduced price meals.

In addition, families that do not meet these criteria but have expenses such as unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, or disaster or casualty loss are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the Principal's office at the schools. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the application forms contain a statement above the space for signature certifying that all information furnished in the application is true and correct.

An additional statement is added to warn that the application is being made in connection with the receipt of Federal Funds, that school officials may for cause, verify the information in the application, and that deliberate misrepresentation of information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable state and criminal statutes.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for free milk and free or reduced price lunches for them, the family should contact the school. If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals, or for additional benefits such as free lunches and milk if the family income falls at or below the levels shown above.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of child nutrition programs, no child will be discriminated against because of his/her race, sex, color, or national origin, school officials said.
